TRUMP RAISES A STINK ABOUT INDIA'S 'FILTHY' AIR QUALITY

"Look at China, how filthy it is. Look at Russia. Look at India. The air is filthy," US Prez Donald Trump said referring to air pollution

'US WAS TREATED UNFAIRLY IN CLIMATE DEAL'

Trump said the US pulled out of the 2015 Paris climate deal because it was treated unfairly despite its commitment to spend trillions of dollars, while countries like India got way with poor performance in tackling global warming. According to the Global Carbon Projection, India is the fourth biggest emitter of carbon dioxide, while the US is the second largest | P9, 14

CIVILITY RETURNS TO PRESIDENTIAL DEBATE

- The top four carbon dioxide emitters in the world are China (27%), the US (15)), the European Union (10%) and India (7%)
- Unlike the first one, the second and final debate between Trump and Joe Biden on Thursday night was more civilised as the two leaders spoke about substantive issues without interruption

COVID IMPACT

India's GDP recovery years away, says RBI deputy guv

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

CORONAVIRUS' impact on the economy is unlike any other and it could take years to regain the lost output, RBI Deputy Governor Michael Patra has warned.

"If the projections hold, the level of GDP would have fallen approximately 6% below its pre-Covid level by the end of 2020-21 and it may take years to regain this lost output," Batra said at the Monetary Policy Committee (MPC) meeting earlier this month, the minutes of which were released on Friday.

"There is also an anecdotal sense that the economy's potential output has fallen, and the post-Covid growth trajectory will look very different from what has been recorded so far," Patra added.

Advocating structural reforms, the deputy governor pointed out that both monetary and fiscal policy in India face tightening constraints.

"For fiscal policy, it is the collapse of tax revenue — by 32% in the first quarter; consequently, the Centre's revenue deficit during April-August is 121.9% of budget estimates. For monetary policy, it is the persistence of headline inflation above 6% for the third month in succession. Structural reforms to unlock growth impulses are needed, but may lack social traction in an atmosphere of depressed growth and employment, and high uncertainty," he noted.

India's economy is estimated to have contracted 23.9% in the April- June quarter while RBI projections peg the full-year contraction at 9.5%.

Bihar battleground heats up with back-to-back rallies by Modi and Rahul; prime minister criticises RJD, seeks repeat mandate for Nitish for restoring the rule of law in the state

Reject those who nurtured goons, says Modi, raps obstructionist Oppn

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Friday tore into the Opposition Grand Alliance spearheaded by the RJD in a series of election rallies, urging voters to reject those "who fed the goons and developed their own family".

He also took a swipe at the Congress for its belligerence on the new farm reform laws. "For them, the interest of middlemen is above the farmers' welfare. They side with those who conspire against the country," the PM said, adding the NDA government will never go back on its decision to withdraw special powers to J&K under Article 370.

"Bihar deserves development but who will ensure it — he who developed his own family or he who forgot his own family in the service of the people? Bihar deserves better law and order, but who will ensure it — he who fed the goons or he who made the law to chase down the goons and criminals?" Modi asked in his trademark style, targeting the 15-year RJD rule while defending ally Nitish Kumar of the JD(U).

He also paid rich tributes to LJP leader Ram Vilas Paswan who passed away recently, but avoided criticising his party, which recently broke away from the NDA in the state.

Turning to the Opposition, the PM said it was "opposed to development and national interest". Alluding to the Congress for its strident stand against the new farm laws, Modi said whenever middlemen are targeted for providing direct benefits to farmers, some people in the opposition start fanning propaganda on the MSP (Minimum Support Price) and other national issues.

"When Rafale fighter jets were purchased, they spoke the language of middlemen and brokers. Whenever intermediaries and brokers get hit, these people get furious."

Accusing the former UPA government of being vindictive against Nitish Kumar, he said that despite persistent demands for assistance by the CM, the then government had ignored the state. "When the NDA government was formed, Bihar under Nitish Kumar started getting its due," he said, praising Nitish for various development works.

He also saluted the Galwan martyrs of the Bihar Regiment.

Rahul bid to pin PM down on migrants, China ingress

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Patna

KICKING off his party's poll campaign in Bihar on Friday, former Congress president Rahul Gandhi tried to pin down Prime Minister Narendra Modi on the emotive issues of migrants and the Chinese ingress into Ladakh, since many soldiers hailing from the state had laid down their lives in the Galwan valley violence in June.

"You (migrants) covered hundreds of kilometres on foot hungry and thirsty, but Modi did not arrange transport. He left you to your fate," Rahul said in back-to-back rallies with RJD's Tejashwi Yadav in Nawada and Bhagalpur districts. "A government for such migrants and labourers must be installed."

Rahul also accused Modi of insulting the Army by denying that the PLA had infiltrated into eastern Ladakh. "Our 20 soldiers were martyred and they took 1,200 sq km of our area. When China intruded, why did our PM insult Indian Army's heroes by lying that no one had come inside India?" Rahul questioned. "Merely bowing one's head before martyred jawans of the Bihar Regiment will not do. When you will get the land occupied by the PLA vacated?" he asked.

In his address, an optimistic Tejashwi said: "On November 9, Lalu ji will be released from jail. On November 10, Nitish Kumar's farewell is fixed."

Amazon skips JPC meeting, draws members' wrath

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

SOCIAL media giant Facebook's representatives were on Friday questioned for two hours, while e-commerce major Amazon chose not to appear before a joint parliamentary committee (JPC) that is looking into the Personal Data Protection Bill, 2019 saying its 'subject matter experts' were all abroad.

Facebook's representatives were asked about portability of data, advertisement revenue generated from India and the corporate tax the company pays in India, while Amazon received a stern warning from the joint parliamentary committee for skipping the meeting.

Amazon said it has utmost respect for the JPC and expressed regret that its executives were unable to travel to India due to the coronavirus pandemic.

Sources privy to the meeting said the JPC members were unanimous in considering action against Amazon. Some parliamentarians said the Union government should intervene in the matter while others suggested moving a privilege motion against Amazon.

The panel's chairperson Meenakshi Lekhi said JPC members have demanded strict action against the US firm because if one company had refused before the parliamentary committee, it was possible that in future more companies and individuals too could just skip meetings or refuse to appear before a parliamentary committee.

Sources said members of the JPC were also dissatisfied with Facebook's "vague" replies about the advertisement revenue, its alleged electoral bias and the corporate tax being paid in the country. The social media platform was asked to give a more specific detailed written reply within two weeks.

FACEBOOK FACES TOUGH QUESTIONS

JPC members grilled Facebook representatives, including Facebook's policy head Ankhi Das, about data protection and data portability. Parliamentarians said while there were millions of users of Facebook, Instagram and WhatsApp in India, the personal data of users was being stored outside the country

DEGREE, PG COLLEGES TO OPEN FROM NOV 17

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE State Government has decided to reopen higher education institutions for undergraduate, post-graduate, engineering and diploma colleges, with physical attendance in classes, from November 17. However, students will have the option of attending the classes physically or online, though for practicals, it will be mandatory to attend classes physically.

Deputy Chief Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan, who is also Minister for Higher Education, announced this on Friday after making a presentation to Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa about preparations made by the departments concerned at a meeting chaired by the CM and attended by ministers and senior officials. "We have decided to reopen and conduct offline (physical) classes for engineering, undergraduate, post-graduate and diploma colleges from November 17. However, students can opt to either attend offline classes or continue with online classes. Those wishing to attend offline classes should get written consent from their parents," Ashwath Narayan said.

"Other facilities, including transport and hostels, will also be made. We have already held meetings regarding such issues with the departments concerned. The University Grants Commission (UGC) has also said offline classes can resume from November," he said. P7

POLL SEASON

Not just this bypoll, there's more coming up in months ahead

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

WITH the state cautiously getting into the festival mood in the shadow of the Covid-19 pandemic, the high-pitch campaign for the Assembly bypolls and the biennial election to the Legislative Council has only added to the euphoria. And that's not all. Karnataka will witness at least six elections, right from the Gram Panchayats to the Lok Sabha bypoll, in the next six to eight months.

Hectic campaigning is already on for RR Nagar and Sira Assembly constituencies, which will go to polls on November 3, along with the election to four Council seats from the teachers' and graduates' constituencies on October 28.

The Gram Panchayat elections are long overdue and the matter is before the High Court, which has reserved its order. According to sources in the Rural Development and Panchayat Raj department, the elections may be held, latest by December. The terms of Taluk and Zilla Panchayats will end in May 2021 and elections will have to be held for these local bodies too.

Poll panel can decide on holding GP elections: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday said that the State Election Commission (SEC) can take a decision on holding elections to Gram Panchayats (GPs), in accordance with law.

"We make it clear that though we have reserved judgment, the SEC can always take a decision in accordance with law," a division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Ashok S Kinagi said. The bench heard arguments of the State Government, SEC and senior counsel for Congress MLC K C Kondaiah and others, who filed a petition seeking directions to hold elections to GPs.

The bench observed that the stand taken by the government to postpone elections is not correct, that too at a time elections are being held to the Bihar assembly. Ultimately, it's the SEC which has to take a call, the bench said.

Advocate-General Prabhuling K Navadgi said, "The SEC should take us into confidence before taking a decision, but it has unilaterally come to a conclusion to hold elections. We are only concerned about the health of citizens in view of the pandemic". P4

Actor goes on night safari in Bandipur, chases tiger, rides elephant

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

KANNADA actor Dhanveer on Friday kicked up a storm after some videos of his forest visit went viral — one of him chasing a tiger during a night safari in Bandipur Tiger Reserve (BTR) and another of him sitting atop a camp elephant.

Dhanveer is seen seated in the range forest officer's jeep, shooting a video of the fleeing tiger. Flashlights and high-beam lights are on while tracking and chasing the animal. The photograph was taken at 7.30pm, which is beyond the safari timing.

In the second video, Dhanveer is seen climbing the back of a camp elephant to sit on its neck, without any protection. Forest officials point out that these are violations under the Wildlife Protection Act, 1972, and the actor and others seated in the jeep, including the driver and RFO, should be booked.

Officials said Dhanveer was in Karigowdanakatte, Nanganapura Kere in BTR, in a Mahindra Bolero belonging to Bandipur RFO Hanumantharaju. He was also seen at Balle Elephant Camp in Nagarahole Tiger Reserve, though he claimed he was at Sakrebailu camp.

In his defence, Dhanveer said: "I went for the safari at 4.30pm and as I was coming out at 6.30pm, I saw the tiger at 6.31 pm. No flashlights were used, they were the headlights of the jeep. It was dark because we were inside the forest. In case of the elephant, I was at Sakrebailu and the staffers allowed me to sit on the animal."

Actor Dhanveer sits on an elephant in Nagarahole Tiger Reserve

Conservationists are questioning why the actor was allowed on a night safari, and point out that this is not the first time prominent people have broken the rules.

"There have been many instances of sons of politicians, who have been members of the State Wildlife Board, going on such rides. This means that those with power and money can break the law. Going by the actor's version, he photographed the animal at 6.31 pm in the safari zone, so the driver cruising from the forest to the pick-up point in 15 minutes itself is a violation as he exceeded the speed limit," say conservationists.

Forest officials are also not convinced. BTR Director T Balachandra told TNIE, "Safari timings are from 3.30pm to 5.30pm, and safari vehicles have to be back at the checkpoints by 6.30pm. We have heard Dhanveer's statement, but are not satisfied, and a thorough inquiry is being held. Night safari is not permitted and the officials are answerable."

Another version doing the rounds is that the RFO's brother took the actor on a night safari. Forest minister Anand Singh gave his assurance that stern action would be taken. "Nobody has the right to break the rules. An example needs to be set for people and officials, and stern action will be taken against the violators," he said.

HERITAGE WATCH

Rlys plan to restore 3 colonial era stations

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THREE halt railway stations under the Bengaluru Railway Division which are of heritage value could be restored to their days of pristine glory once approvals come though.

The Doddajala, Avatihalli and Nandi Hills stations on the Bengaluru-Chikkaballapur light railway line – which was opened on August 1, 1915 – are over 105 years old and are set to get a face lift. The picturesque and exquisite stations are today in a state of neglect.

A senior railway official told TNIE, "The Bengaluru Railway Division is working on a proposal to restore the stations. There will be no demolition. They have enormous heritage value and were built over 100 years ago. We want to ensure they are preserved at all costs."

The Civil Engineering department is taking the lead in the venture. "The South Western Railway headquarters or the Railway Board needs to give us approval to go ahead. We will submit our proposal for the green signal," the official said.

No one in the Railways had a clue about the history of the stations. "One train passes through the stations in the morning and another in the evening," was all one official said. According to the Mysore Gazette, the Bengaluru-Chikkaballapur light railway line, sanctioned in 1909, was built as a PPP between the British government and the Southern Maratha Railway Company.

Karnataka Railway Vedike member Krishna Prasad said, "This rail line played a crucial role in connecting these areas to the city. The Mysore royal family, Sir M Visvesvaraya and Seshadri Iyer played a crucial role in setting up this narrow gauge line then. However, due to massive expansion of Bengaluru, this crucial connecting line and the stations lost their significance."

BOATS OUT TO RESCUE CITIZENS IN CITY

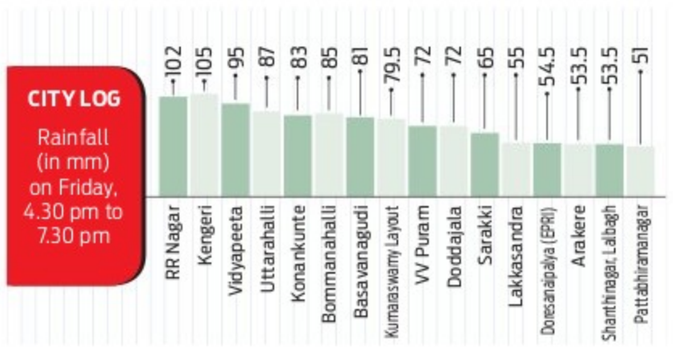
Heavy rain leaves city in a mess, roads water-logged, basements flooded; traffic comes to standstill in most areas

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IT was a wet and dreary start to the festive weekend. For the second time in a week, heavy showers through Friday evening left Bengalureans stranded by roadsides, in vehicles, homes and offices, with nowhere to run for shelter. Rivers of rainwater gushed through the roads, rising above knee-level, entering homes and flooding basements and markets. Vehicles were spotted floating in filthy water.

NDRF boats slid out into the water on rescue missions, as complaints poured down the BBMP hotline, and teams were requisitioned. A team of 20 personnel with boats were sent to Hosakerehalli, Dattatreya Layout and Gurudutt Layout to rescue people.

Traffic came to a standstill in most parts of the city, causing hardship to a number of people heading out of the city for the festival. This is not all: India Meteorological Department and Karnataka State Natural Disaster Monitoring Centre officials have forecast more rain across the city and state for the next three days.



The BBMP control room was also flooded with complaints of water-logging in Dattatreya Temple ward, Banashankari 2nd Stage, Syndicate Layout, CT Bed, Bhaskar Rao Park in Vidyapeeta, ITI Layout, LIC Colony, Koramangala 4th Block, JP Nagar 6th Phase, Arekempanahalli ward, Hosakerahalli, Dattatreya Layout, Katriguppe, Vittalanagar, Vasanthapura, RR Nagar, JC Nagar, KR Market, JC Road, Kalidasa Circle and many parts of Bommanahalli.

Water also gushed into homes in low-lying areas of Bommanahalli, into apartment complexes in Sapthagiri Layout in Uttarahalli, besides the basement of several apartment complexes along the drain in Hosakerehallli. Locals reported that there was no difference between water flowing in the drain and on the road, but for the retaining wall.

Mysuru Road appeared to be the worst hit as the water level rose, leaving vehicles and buses stranded. Commuters below the flyover and Metro line were surrounded by 2-3 feet of flowing water. The roads around Gandhi Bazaar, near the flyover, and Chickpet were also blocked by more than two feet of stagnant water.

The compound wall of Gavigangadharaswamy temple, near Harihara Gudda park, collapsed due to heavy rainfall.

BBMP engineers rush to the spot to drain out water, using tankers and pipes, layouts and roads, to make them motorable. BBMP Commissioner N Manjunatha Prasad visited the affected areas to take stock of the ground situation, then reached the control rooms and attended to calls from aggrieved citizens. He directed officials to be on vigil round the clock and attend to complaints.

MET PREDICTS

IMD officials say that the Southwest Monsoon is active over coastal and south interior Karnataka, and weak over north interior Karnataka. The depression over northwest Bay of Bengal, off Odisha coast, has moved towards Bangladesh coast, and is likely to move towards West Bengal and adjoining Bangladesh coasts. The East-West trough along peninsular India persists and is now between 1.5 km and 3.6 km above mean sea level. Officials point out that under the influence of these systems, the city and most parts of Karnataka will experience heavy to very heavy rainfall for the next three days.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

24th October: There's a Mercury-Neptune angle this week. OK, I know that's technical jargon, so let me tell you what it means. It points to a huge potential for massive misunderstanding and total confusion. That might be great for poets and romantics, but lousy for people with practical jobs to do. There is a solution though: take extra care and double-check every detail - and all should be well!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
You are bound to feel slightly uncertain, if not unsettled. It's a useful moment to spend some time alone, day-dreaming and letting others carry the can. Just make sure that you cope with practical chores that absolutely can't be delayed. Otherwise you'll annoy people you rely on!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Venus, the planet which represents your relationships, is now forming a distant alliance with Jupiter, the symbol of generosity. Could a lover be in a particularly generous mood? This is certainly one possibility. At all times remember that change is desirable, but stability is essential.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
It's time to contemplate the professional future, although it is uncertain whether it is you or a partner who is under the spotlight. Plus, don't imagine that career is everything. There are many other ambitions worth pursuing! Improvements at home are long overdue, so put your suggestions forward now.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Travel plans should form a central part of your thinking right now. Your need to get away is not pure escapism, more a matter of finding out what the rest of the world has to offer. Even short trips are likely to satisfy your expectations, at least partially.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
There's passion aplenty in the air today, and you're liable to be extremely busy. And if you don't like that prospect, then stay away from the action! Once you have dealt with financial questions and routine chores, you can turn to personal relationships. Take differences of opinion in your stride.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The Moon presents you with significant personal challenges, and quite possibly a degree of confusion. The way to highlight today's positive potential is to emphasise every activity which is inspired, imaginative and romantic. That sounds like an excellent policy!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Venus is currently bringing emotional reassurance, but its intriguing relationship with Mars could upset a number of your preconceptions today. It's important not to hang on to the past, but to see that people who have come into your life recently can offer you all the support you need.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
You could be having qualms about one particular emotional tie, and you may be concerned that a partner or colleague doesn't feel about you the way you feel about them. It's one of those rare moments when absolute honesty is called for. You never know - you might be pleasantly surprised.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You probably feel pulled in two directions, and you may imagine that there can be no solution to an emotional quandary. However, all things must pass, and if you face up to the issues now, the tension will dissipate. All you need is a dose of additional confidence.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
It is time for a little sensitivity. You may even have a telepathic feeling or two, and your intuitions certainly seem to be functioning in top gear. Mind you, it could be difficult to distinguish true facts from vague fantasies, and news which arrives very soon could be a mite confusing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
There may be little you can do to straighten out personal finances at the moment, but you must pay very close attention indeed to all joint business affairs. This is where prosperity lies. Could a loved one offer better advice than the experts? Perhaps - so listen well and judge carefully.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
The Moon marks today out as a very special moment, if only because it's offering you the chance to expand your horizons. Even small events which take place now could have very positive and powerful repercussions over the next six months. And that has to be good news!

1-2% recovered patients get fever

Doctors puzzled over inexplicable fever which lasts about 4-5 days, say it can be cured

RANJANI MADHAVAN AND IFFATH FATHIMA @Bengaluru

ONE to two per cent of Covid patients develop a fever about 14 days after they are given a clean bill of health, puzzling doctors as there is no clear cause.

Called post viremic pyrexia (fever that occurs after the phase in which a virus multiplies in the body), the fever lasts 4-5 days and has been seen in all categories of patients.

"Usually, fever is indicative of an underlying infection. But when we do blood and urine tests, the results indicate there is no secondary infection, meaning it is not an infective fever. As it occurs 14 days after the Covid infection, it has no connection with the multiplication of the Covid-19 virus in the body," said Dr Anoop Amarnath, head of the scientific board at Manipal Hospital and member of the state Critical Care Support Team.

A health worker collects a sample at in Bengaluru on Friday | VINOD KUMAR T

"We don't know the exact cause. It could be due to remnants of the virus or remnants of the cytokine storm in the body," Dr Amarnath said.

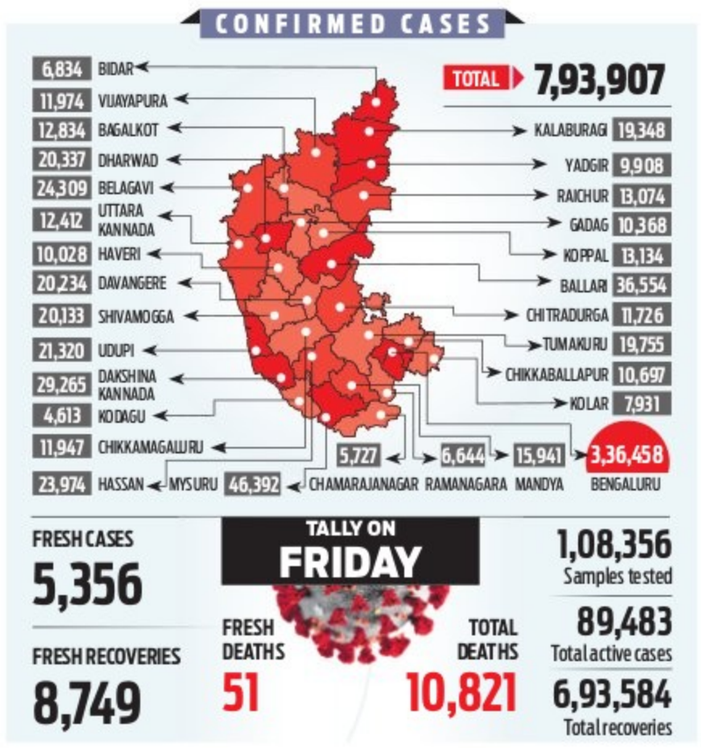
A cytokine storm refers to the body's immune response to a disease, infection, or autoimmune condition, in which the body releases cytokines (proteins) into the blood.

Another reason could be the virus shedding 45-50 days after the infection, leading to a low fever and low oxygen levels. Patients are prescribed remdesivir and steroids, said Dr Ravindra Mehta, head of pulmonology at Apollo Speciality Hospitals.

"We check for inflammatory markers and infections such as typhoid, dengue, malaria and flu. The RT-PCR test is done again. These fevers are not bad and don't create a major problem and are not something the public should worry about," Dr Mehta said, adding that paracetamol up to 3-4gm per day is sufficient to reduce the fever.

In the elderly, it could be due to age-related changes in the immune system, due to which the body only partially tackles Covid-19, and part of the infection continues, causing fever.

"Usually, such patients are treated as outpatients. The fever is due to the inflammatory pathology triggered by the virus. Escalating levels of cytokines cause inflammation, leading to fever. It generally settles down, and can be cured with time, diet and medication," said Dr Srivatsa Lokeshwaran, consultant of interventional pulmonology at Aster CMI Hospital.



Govt must make vaccine free in K'taka too: Siddu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

CONGRESS leaders in Karnataka slammed the BJP for making Covid vaccine an election issue in Bihar and urged the state government to ensure that free vaccine is provided to everyone in Karnataka. Leader of Opposition Siddaramaiah urged the state government to put pressure on the Union government to do so.

In a series of posts on social media, he questioned Union Minister Nirmala Sitharaman over the vaccine and said that she has made it clear that the distribution of free vaccine is dependent on the electoral outcome in Bihar. "Should the pandemic not be a concern of the Central government?" he asked. He also questioned the Prime Minister and asked, "Is this not votes over health and life, for BJP?"

Siddaramaiah added there is no general election in Karnataka at present. "Does this mean Kannadigas won't get free vaccine? There are 25 MPs from BJP and Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa can demand free vaccine for Kannadigas also. Just because there are no general elections happening in Karnataka, it doesn't mean you neglect the state," the Congress leader said. Calling BJP an opportunist party, he added that Kannadigas are waiting for the announcement of free vaccine by the government.

People will be given free vaccine if they are voted to power (in Bihar). Will you kill people if you are defeated in the election? No political party should politicise the vaccine issue

A H Vishwanath, MLC

BJP's state unit responded to Siddaramaiah's remarks by stating that the Congress does not understand the difference between a poll manifesto and governance.

Speaking in Mysuru on Friday, BJP MLC A H Vishwanath said no political party should politicise the vaccine issue.

Enforce Covid norms: HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Friday directed the Government to form a dedicated team to strictly implement the norms of wearing masks and maintaining social distancing at public places in the city.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Ashok S Kinagi passed the order after hearing a PIL filed by city-based Letzkit Foundation.

Noting that regulations cannot be enforced as only 198 marshals – one per ward – to check solid waste collection and disposal violations, are also tasked with ensuring mask and social distancing norms, the bench said that there are many breaches of norms in city.

Political rallies and protests too are contributing to violations, and a dedicated team with a large number of officials, including marshals, should be formed to enforce regulations in the city, it said.

It directed the state to constitute the team on or before October 28.

The bench also said that authorities granting permission to rallies should incorporate conditions on following the norms. The State should ensure that certain police personnel are given the job ensuring regulations in rallies, it said.

Meet next week to discuss vaccine

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Government has convened a high-level meeting next week to discuss a road map regarding vaccine administration once it is made available, and the Chief Minister will decide if it will be provided free of cost.

K Sudhakar

"Karnataka's health system is robust with a vast network of primary health centres (PHCs) and anganwadis. We will channelise and administer the vaccine to every citizen through this network. A high-level meeting has been convened next week to discuss the road map regarding vaccine administration in Karnataka," said Dr K Sudhakar, Health Minister and Covid in-charge Minister.

The vaccine is expected to be available as early as January 2021 and the government is preparing in anticipation of that. "Although India has vast experience in immunization of children, the big challenge is that we don't have experience in adult vaccination unlike some western countries," he said.

The Centre is working on a plan to roll out the vaccine once it is ready, the minister said, adding that Prime Minister Narendra Modi has drawn an apt parallel that the scale and reach of this exercise will be similar to that of the election process.

On whether the vaccine would be free, State Health Commissioner Pankaj Kumar Pandey said trials were still on. "The Government of India is driving the process of vaccination. It's a very early question. When the vaccine comes, the state government will take a call on certain policy issues including price," he said.

The BJP's manifesto for the Bihar assembly polls has triggered a debate on providing free vaccine. The Opposition Congress, which has slammed the ruling party for making it a political issue, has demanded that the state government ensure that the vaccine is provided free in Karnataka.

Hinting that the state government may decide on making the vaccine free, DyCM Dr CN Ashwath Narayan on Friday said the government has been giving universal vaccination for free. However, he told reporters that the CM will decide on whether it will be free only after the vaccine is available.

Health workers first priority

BENGALURU: When the vaccine is available, health workers will be covered in the first phase, followed by other priority groups, the Department of Health said in an official release on Friday. Karnataka has already begun to collect data on health workers, which is due to be completed by October 31, in keeping with the Centre's instructions. Health workers include frontline staff, ANMs ASHA and anganwadi workers, nurses, doctors, paramedical, administrative and research staff and medical students. The government has initiated preparedness measures to use the existing cold chain system of Routine Immunization under the Universal Immunisation Programme for the vaccine.

COVID NORMS THROWN TO WIND, POLL RALLIES DRAW BIG CROWDS

Leaders from all three parties hold such events; May lead to big outbreak, warn experts

BANSY KALAPPA @Bengaluru

ELECTIONEERING has reached a fever pitch at Sira and RR Nagar Assembly constituencies, with roadshows, election rallies and door-to-door campaigning by leaders of three major parties, the BJP, Congress and JDS. But none of these leaders seem to worry about Covid and have failed to observe the norms required to keep the pandemic under control. The first guideline that has gone out of the window is social distancing as poll rallies have seen thousands of people jostling for space.

Experts warned that such rallies could turn into super-spreaders and the effect would be known in another 15 days when Covid starts surfacing unless the administration takes steps to break the chain.

Ruling party leaders, including BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel, DyCMs Dr CN Ashwath Narayana and Laxman Savadi, party state vice-president B Y Vijayendra, MP G S Basavraju, BJP National Yuva Morcha president Tejasvi Surya, ministers R Ashok, J C Madhuswamy and Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar have all addressed massive rallies. The presence of Dr Sudhakar in such outings is stark as he is heading the state's fight against the pandemic.

Panchayat Raj Minister K S Eshwarappa and BJP state unit vice-president B Y Vijayendra during a rally in Sira on Friday

From the Congress, Opposition Leader Siddaramaiah, KPCC president D K Shivakumar, former DyCM Dr G Parameshwar, former minister and candidate from Sira T B Jayachandra, MP D K Suresh, former MP Muddahanume Gowda and others too have been addressing poll events attended by large crowds.

JDS leaders former PM H D Deve Gowda and former CM H D Kumaraswamy too have ignored such norms, despite their Sira Assembly bypoll candidate, Ammajamma, recovering from Covid only recently.

Election Commission of India, Karnataka CEO, Sanjiv Kumar, told TNIE, "We are holding a meeting tomorrow (Saturday), where I will ask my officers to tighten the Covid safety measures. The government should also book cases against those responsible."

Dr Sudarshan Ballal, Chairman, Manipal Hospitals, said, "We saw a spike in new infections in Kerala during the recent Onam celebrations. Considering the elections and the festive season, I request all the citizens, our leaders and party workers to follow Covid protocols and to avoid large gatherings to maintain social distancing, till the real vaccine is available."

Quite ironically, many of these leaders, who have been responsible for violations, are quick to point a finger at Kerala for its post-Onam outbreak.

Health experts warned that it is the festival season, and if people don't follow the guidelines, the pandemic could spiral out of control. They wondered why these leaders have not been booked yet.

RUDE SHOCK

Congress MLA BZ Zameer Ahmed Khan in Sira on Friday

Savadi says five Cong MLAs may join BJP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Tumakuru

AMID the ongoing campaigning for the Sira Assembly bypoll, Deputy Chief Minister Laxman Savadi on Friday dropped a bombshell, saying five more Congress MLAs are ready to quit the party and join the BJP.

"Since they have realised that Congress has no future in Karnataka, the MLAs have made up their mind to quit," he claimed while campaigning for BJP candidate Dr C M Rajesh Gowda at Tavarekere village.

He said that the BJP will win both Sira and R R Nagar bypolls. "Besides this poll debacle and five more MLAs joining the BJP, the Congress situation will only get worse," he added.

He claimed that Karnataka State Apex Bank chairman and former MLA K N Rajanna of Congress has a good rapport with him.

> Since the MLAs have realised that Congress has no future in Karnataka, the MLAs have made up their mind to quit
>
> Laxman Savadi, Deputy Chief Minister

"By admiring Prime Minister Narendra Modi's administration, he helped Tumakuru BJP candidate G S Bavasaraju win the 2019 Lok Sabha election against H D Deve Gowda. But in Sira now, he has been campaigning for the Congress candidate because of some pressure," Savadi said, sending feelers to voters of the ST Nayaka community, to which Rajanna belongs.

Cong, JDS try to woo Muslim voters in Sira

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @Tumakuru

ALL the three major political parties, BJP, Congress and JDS, and their leaders campaigning in the Sira Assembly constituency are focusing on Sira town, which was the headquarters of Moghul rulers in the 16th century and has considerable minority votes.

For Congress and the JDS, these votes are crucial, while the BJP is focusing on majority Hindu votes. BJP leaders, including Deputy Chief Minister Laxman Savadi, Panchayat Raj Minister K S Eshwarappa and BJP state VP B Y Vijayendra, have campaigned aggressively but have not touched upon religious issues. They are instead talking only about the development works BJP candidate Dr C M Rajesh Gowda would bring in if elected.

Unlike other elections, Chamarajpet MLA B Z Zameer Ahmed Khan has kept a low profile and is focussing on Muslim-dominated areas to campaign for Congress candidate T B Jayachandra. JDS patriarch H D Deve Gowda too campaigned in one of the Muslim-dominated areas.

Siddaramaiah focused on areas dominated by backward classes, especially Kadugollas. "I had proposed to the Centre to give a scheduled tribe tag to Gollas when I was the CM and also included the community in the caste list. In the next general elections, I will give a ticket to one of your leaders," he said.

SE GRADUATES' SEAT

CM to campaign for Council candidate today

ENS @Davanagere

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa will campaign for BJP candidate from the South East Graduates' constituency, Chidananda M Gowda, here on Saturday.

The campaigning, which was dull till now and solely dependent on candidates, will hit a high note with the chief minister addressing the rally with a limited crowd at 11 am. The organisers have made Covid-related precautions, like masks, sanitisation and social distancing, mandatory.

District BJP president Veeresh Hanagawadi said Yediyurappa will speak about the government's move to empower teachers, corona warriors and graduates.

On BJP rebels, D T Srinivas and Dr Halanuru S Lepakshi, contesting the election, he said that their presence will not affect the BJP candidate and he will win with maximum number of the first-preference votes.

On former Union minister and BJP MLA Basangouda Patil Yatnal's recent outburst, party MLA S A Ravindranath said that he should not speak against the Chief Minister and issues should be raised within party forums.

1.08 lakh to vote in SE Graduates' constituency

Davangere/Chitradurga: As many as 1.08 lakh voters will exercise their franchise in the South East Graduates' constituency elections which will be held on October 28. With the voting slated to be held on Wednesday the candidates are toiling hard to please the voters. All the focus is on Tumakuru, Davangere and Chitradurga districts, which have the maximum number of votes in the constituency. Tumakuru has 32,000 votes, followed by Davanagere's 20,000, Chitradurga's 21,500 votes, Kolar's 20,000 and Chikkaballapura's 15,000 votes. ENS

After lacklustre campaigning, JDS withdraws from West Graduates' seat

PRAMODKUMAR VAIDYA @Hubballi

WHEN the battle for the Karnataka West Graduates' constituency for a Legislative Council seat is heating up, the Janata Dal (Secular) has laid down its arms. Fearing defeat, it has decided to withdraw its party candidate Shivashnakr Kallur and instead support an independent, Basavaraj Gurikar.

The JDS does not have the ground support or strong party organisation in the constituency, which covers four districts of Bombay-Karnataka region -- Dharwad, Haveri, Gadag and Uttara Kannada.

The party's official line, however, is that the untimely death of Kallur's father-in-law affected his campaigning and he had to spend time with the family. "A graduates' constituency election requires one-on-one approach, but the party failed. The state leadership has now decided to keep away from the election," said party senior leader Basavaraj Horatti.

With their candidate gone, party workers and leaders wanted to know which party candidate they should support, except the BJP and Congress. After getting the feedback from district units, it was decided to back Gurikar, who enjoys support among the teaching community and has the ability to win the poll, Horatti said.

Senior JDS leader Basavaraj Horatti announces his support for Independent candidate Basavaraj Gurikar in Hubballi

Party sources said that Kallur did not do any groundwork, though his candidature was announced well in advance. He wanted party top leaders to campaign and fund his election. But the leadership was unhappy with his attitude and decided to distance itself from the election.

Gurikar, meanwhile, has struggled hard for the past 18 months to make his presence felt in the election. Initially, he sought tickets from all political parties, including BJP, and after he failed to get a favourable response from any of them, he decided to contest as an independent.

Pleasantly surprised by the turn of events, Gurikar said that the support of JDS, especially of Horatti, would boost his chances. "I have already completed three rounds of campaigning and Horatti backing me at this juncture will help me convince voters about the seriousness of my contest," he said, adding that JDS' support is unconditional.

Though Horatti is confident of transferring his core votes, Gurikar himself is associated familiar only to primary teachers and has no influence among other graduates. His performance will now depend on how Horatti's voters will exercise their franchise, sources said.

Voter names of one community deleted: DKS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

KPCC president D K Shivakumar on Friday alleged that names of voters belonging to one community are being deleted surreptitiously from the electoral rolls.

A senior Congress leader Krishna Byregowda had made a similar allegation against the BJP before the Bengaluru South parliamentary election, saying around 30,000 names of members of some communities had been removed from voter rolls.

Shivakumar, addressing leaders from the Vokkaliga community in RR Nagar, said that IAS officer late D K Ravi, who was Congress candidate Kusuma Hanumanthrayappa's husband, should have been brave and not commit suicide. On BJP MP Shobha Karandlaje's objection to Kusuma using her husband's name, Shivakumar said that she has every right as she was married to the IAS officer.

He said, "Bande (the rock, as he is known) can be used as stone slabs too and I am willing to be of use to common people."

If elections are postponed, electoral roll has to be redone, says SEC

THE bench said the SEC should function independently, though the state wants indefinite postponement of elections. "Let them (SEC) hold elections in a phased manner, starting from districts where infection is less. But the stand of the state is to simply postpone without finding a solution. Byelections are being held to two Assembly constituencies in the state," it pointed out.

In reply, the AG said the next two months are very critical, and there are also floods in some districts of North Karnataka. "Let the SEC consult us, I'll ask the Chief Secretary to have discussions will all deputy commissioners," he argued.

IN THE HC

Senior counsel K N Phanindra argued that all DCs were consulted in June itself and they had agreed to hold elections in November and December. The police department also gave the green signal. If elections are postponed, the electoral roll will have to be revised and the term of the elected GP members will get curtailed, he argued.

Supporting the contentions of the SEC, Prof Ravivarma Kumar, senior counsel representing the petitioner, submitted that the State Government has no reason to interfere in the functioning of the SEC, as it has kept temples, marriage halls, theatres and restaurants open, and has no locus standi to object to elections.

'Gram Panchayat polls to be conducted in phases'

THIS apart, bypolls will have to be held for the Maski and Basavakalyan Assembly constituencies, and also the Belagavi Lok Sabha constituency. Prathap Gowda Patil, who was MLA from Maski constituency in Raichur district, was among the rebel Congress leaders who resigned and switched to BJP. As a case against him was pending before a court, the bypoll was not conducted in 2019. The then BJP candidate had challenged Patil's election.

B Narayana Rao, the Congress MLA from Basavakalyan constituency, and Union Minister of State for Railways, Suresh Angadi, who represented Belagavi Lok Sabha seat, succumbed to Covid in September.

Speaking to The New Indian Express, Karnataka State Election Commissioner B Basavaraj said they are ready to conduct the Gram Panchayat election. "We are just waiting for the court order and we will do accordingly," he said.

> We have to look at having limited number of polling staff. We cannot depute people from other districts in view of the high number of Covid positive cases. We have plans to conduct Panchayat election in phases
>
> B Basavaraj, Karnataka SEC

Basavaraju admitted that conducting elections is challenging in Covid times. "We have to look at having limited number of polling staff. We cannot depute people from other districts in view of the high number of Covid-19 positive cases. We have plans to conduct Panchayat election in phases.

Each district will be divided into two or three zones and limited staff from the districts can be utilised as the polls will be conducted in phases," he said.

Meanwhile, the Kannada Sahithya Parishat is also due for election early next year. For the first time, number of voters has crossed three lakh and presently, there are 3.33 lakh registered voters. Parishat president Manu Baligar's term will end by the first week of March 2021.

Speaking to TNIE, Baligar said they will write to the State Government in November as they have to be informed three months before the election is due. "There is no need to postpone the election as the state is already going for many elections," he pointed out.

Farmers urge Guv to reject reissued ordinance on Land Reforms Act

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A day after the state government took a decision to issue an ordinance on amendments to the Karnataka Land Reforms Act again, farmers associations have urged the Governor to reject it.

"The state government failed to get amendments to the Karnataka Land Reforms Act and other bills passed in the recent session of the state legislature. Farmers had protested across the state and bills were opposed by opposition parties. Now, the government has again decided to issue the ordinance and we condemn it," said Kuruburu Shantakumar, State President of Federation of Farmers Associations and State Sugarcane Growers Association.

The federation has written to the Governor asking him to not give his assent as it is against the Constitution to issue an ordinance for the second time, especially after it failed to pass in the legislature session.

A file picture of farmers protesting amendments to Land Reforms Act

The government had issued an ordinance in June to bring amendments to the Act that allowed even non- agriculturists to buy agriculture land in the state. The amendment bill was passed in the Assembly amid protests by Congress, but it got stuck in the Legislative Council, in which the combined strength of Congress and JDS is more than the BJP.

"If the government is really committed to develop agriculture and help farmers, let them put a condition that people who buy agriculture land will only use it only for farming," Shantakumar said, adding that allowing non-agriculturists to buy large tracts of lands will only help real estate companies and big firms and not farmers.

The federation president said their next move will depend on how the government handles the issue. He said if the government invites them for talks they are willing to discuss it with the CM and explain their concerns.

Thousands of students yet to enrol in schools

4,605 students still missing from rolls in current academic year in Chamarajanagar

K SHIVA KUMAR @Mysuru

THE Covid pandemic has cast a pall of gloom over enrolment of students in schools in the backward Chamarajanagar district.

Many parents, fearing the safety of their wards, have not even got their children admitted to higher classes. Though the government had set a deadline of September 30 for admission and then extended it till October 16, around 4,605 students are still missing from the rolls in the current academic year.

> We have appealed to parents to get their wards admitted to the nearest government school if they find it difficult to pay fee
> — Javare Gowda, DDPI

Worried about the trend, officials are trying to convince parents to enrol their children in schools.

According to sources, the number of admissions has come down by 129 in government schools, 1,164 in aided schools and 2,582 in unaided schools. The student strength in Chamarajanagar for 2020-21 is 1,22,389 as against 1,26,994 for 2019-20.

Parents say that they are ready to lose a year rather than put their children at risk, and seem to think that the government will promote their children like last year.

A parent, pleading anonymity, said his daughter wants to join school, but poor financial condition has tied his hands. "I will get her enrolled as soon as I get some money," he said.

Somanna, a teacher, said parents confessed that they don't have money to get their children admitted. "Many parents have no money to pay the fee or buy books as they are not getting assured income for the last 6-7 months," he said. Many children are assisting their parents to supplement the family income.

DDPI Javare Gowda said over 4,000 students have not enrolled to schools so far. "Block education officers have served show-cause notices directing private schools to enrol students, but the numbers have not improved. We have appealed to parents to get their wards admitted to the nearest government school if they find it difficult to pay fee," he said.

Gowda said over 700 students have switched form private to government schools, and BEOs are authorised to give transfer certificates to students to enable them to join schools of their choice.

A tractor trailer filled with labourers from Maharashtra enters border villages of Karnataka | EXPRESS

Maha labourers flood border fields, raise Covid surge fears

MAHESH M GOUDAR
@ Vijayapura

It's the harvest season, and travelling on NH-218 between Vijayapura and Solapur, it's common to see thousands of families from Maharashtra travelling in tractors, bound for the rural areas of Bagalkot, Belagavi and Vijayapura, to work in sugarcane fields.

They will work here on contract basis for the next six months. Every year, at least 2,500 families migrate from Beed, Latur, Satara and Usmanabad districts of Maharashtra.

But this year, as Covid-19 cases surge in both states, the situation is different. Neither have they undergone a Covid test before leaving their home districts, nor are they tested as they enter Karnataka. This has left local authorities in a tizzy.

Subash Tiade, from Kendrewadi village of Beed district told TNIE, "We have been working here since two decades. We work for six months -- between October and March -- and return to our hometowns. At least 50 families from our village are heading to the cane fields in Saundatti taluk of Belagavi."

Covid is no deterrent, as the workers are in a financial crisis, having been jobless since the lockdown in March-end.

Ashok K, of Dhorwadi village in Beed, said, "The fear of the virus is there but we have no option but to migrate. The factories have assured us they will take care of medical expenses. We have not undergone any test before leaving our hometown."

Dr Shashikanth V M, District Health Officer of Belagavi, told TNIE, "It is a serious issue because the rural areas in Maharashtra are more vulnerable. We will call a meeting of sugar factory managements, and instruct them to mandatorily make migrant labourers undergo Covid tests. We will also coordinate with taluk-level officers to make all labourers take the test."

With harvesting likely to start in a week or two, the workers are contacting agents who will send them to sugar factories on contract basis. Demand for workers from Maharashtra is high, simply because they are cheap labour, compared to locals.

Factories pay them Rs 1 lakh (per family, mostly a couple) for six months, against local labourers who demand between Rs 1.5 lakh and Rs 1.75 lakh as wages for the same period. Migrant labourers can be found at Jamkhandi, Mudhol and Bilagi in Bagalkot, Saundatti, Gokak, Athani, Chikkodi and Kittur in Belagavi, and Indi, Sindagi and Muddebihal in Vijayapura.

Raju Kathewadi, an agent from Beed district, said, "We draw up contracts with sugar factories, assuring them of labourers during the harvest season. Each family gets Rs 1 lakh for six months. We have not received any intimation about the mandatory Covid test for labourers. If it is mandatory, sugar factories will take care of the expenses." Raju is bringing at least 100 families to work in Belagavi.

Sivasankar conspirator in gold case: ED

Says Swapna mere pawn, he used his position to release smuggled gold without checking

P RAMDAS @ Kochi

ENDING all speculation about the involvement of the chief minister's office in the smuggling of gold through the diplomatic channel, the Enforcement Directorate on Friday informed the Kerala High Court that the CM's former principal secretary, M Sivasankar, was a "conspirator" and key accused Swapna Suresh only a "pawn".

The central agency told the court that Sivasankar had contacted the customs officers at the Thiruvananthapuram airport multiple times to release the baggage arriving from the UAE through the diplomatic channel without any scrutiny and interference.

"Because of Sivasankar's position and status in the CM's office, he used to call the customs officers concerned at the airport and see to it that the baggage are not checked or sent back by the agency," the ED submitted while opposing the bureaucrat's bail plea.

The agency said the "highly influential" bureaucrat is one of the conspirators behind the gold smuggling. The ED stated that it has reasons to believe that Swapna was only a pawn and Sivasankar was the main beneficiary of the proceeds of the crime. Investigation is going on in this regard and it is necessary to question Sivasankar in custody, the ED said.

"Swapna was totally under Sivasankar's control like a trusted person and there were many instances to prove this. Swapna was the face of the entire transaction, but the strings were pulled by Sivasankar," the ED said.

Refuting the allegations, senior advocate P Vijayabhanu, appearing for Sivasankar, submitted that the report filed by the ED before the special court had no mention that he had called the customs officers.

Appearing for the the ED, Additional Solicitor General S V Raju submitted that Sivasankar is not cooperating with the investigation and misleading the agency.

Organ trade racket case still buried

AJAY KANTH@Kochi

AS Crime Branch on Friday exposed fresh incidents of organ trade in Kerala, a similar case of organ trade racket that harvested vital organs from an accident victim in Kochi in 2009 still remains under the carpet with probe still reaching nowhere.

Though probe into the incident was launched on multiple occasions by police, the investigation team couldn't make much headway after the probe took the officers to doors of a few who have immense influence in the corridors of power. "We collected statements from different government medical officers in connection with the incident. Every time we seek more details, the concerned authorities sit on our requests," said a senior police officer, who handled the probe.

The probe into the case took a surprising turn when Dr P Rema, senior professor of forensic medicine with Thiruvananthapuram Government Medical College, made a disclosure on September 2017 to the probe team that she had never attended the medical board which met under the then Ernakulam District Medical Officer Haseena Mohammed between 2012 and 2014.

Police had to collect the statement of Rema after they found that it was this medical board, constituted in 2014 and which did not have a single neuro surgeon, that gave a clean chit to the doctors who were accused of organ harvesting.

Even after Dr Rema gave a revealing statement to the police that "her name and signature were forged by the medical board to give clean chit to the doctors", the investigation team couldn't make much headway in the probe.

THE Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) has asked the Rail Wheel Factory at Yelahanka to develop wheel sets for its train coaches to be deployed on its Phase-II network. This is being done in line with the twin initiatives of 'Atmanirbhar Bharat Abhiyan' and 'Make in India' campaigns of the Central Government.

BMRCL Managing Director Ajay Seth has written to RWF on Wednesday, in this connection, and a copy of the letter is available with Express. He, however, reserved his comments.

Confirming the development, General Manager, RWF, Rajiv Kumar Vyas told The New Indian Express, "The Union Urban Development Ministry was keen that RWF design the wheels for Bengaluru Metro so that indigenous manufacturing can be given a boost. Top officials have held a series of talks with us in this connection. This is an outcome of that. We had already set the ball rolling and are designing a wheel set which will be sent to BMRCL for approval. It got delayed a bit due to the Covid-19 situation."

The preliminary order is for eight wheel sets, four to be used for a motor coach and four for a trailer coach, Vyas said.

The letter states that BMRCL proposes to place development order for design, manufacture, testing and supply of wheel sets. "Commercial issues for regular manufacture of one motor car wheel set (4 nos) and one trailer car wheel set (4 nos) shall be finalised on receipt of technical clearance from RSDO, Lucknow, for design", it said.

Wheels for Metro coaches were imported earlier and fitted on to coaches built by Bharat Earth Movers Ltd. The Chinese state-owned CRRC Corporation has won the contract for manufacture of 216 coaches for Phase-II.

Colleges told to set up Covid-19 task force

THE opening of other educational institutions, from the degree-level and lower, will be gradual, he said. The decision has been taken keeping in mind the interest of the future of the students.

For students who want to physically attend the classes, a letter of consent from them as well as their parents will be mandatory, and the students will have to register their names so that the colleges will be able to stagger the batches of students per class. The number of batches in each college will be decided depending on the number of students opting for physical classes.

Each college has been ordered to constitute a Covid-19 task force to ensure adherence to standard operating procedures (SOPs) and guidelines while conducting the classes.

Earlier, the government planned to open primary education institutions in the first stage and higher education institutes later. But now, the government has changed this and decided to open higher education classes first, Ashwath Narayan said.

In the presentation made to the Chief Minister, SOPs, academic guidelines, general guidelines, matters like the opening of hostels and issuance of bus passes to students, Digital Learning Management System (DLMS), E-Content, DLMS-features, DLMS-Analytics, equipment needed for the implementation of digital learning were explained.

The Deputy Chief Minister said cooperation of various departments like Social Welfare, OBC, Health, and Higher Education has been sought to run the classes. All the district deputy commissioners have been told to take necessary action, he said.

Several experts have welcomed the move to reopen colleges.

Dr Sylvia Karpagam, public health doctor, explained, "Children with symptoms shouldn't attend classes. If the class is for more than four hours, then students should change their masks. Online classes are a burden on the child because it becomes unconducive to study. How long will they sit at home and attend classes? Life can start, but with precautions."

Education expert Dr Niranjanaradhya V P too said it is a "good decision to open colleges".

"At the same time, it is important to issue standard operating procedures which enable authorities and primary stakeholders to take necessary precautionary measures for the safety and security for students, teachers and non-teaching staff," he told The New Indian Express.

However, the All India Democratic Students Organisation (AIDSO) issued a statement saying that the state government had not consulted educationists, the teaching community, parents and student bodies before announcing its decision.

Meanwhile, the depression in the Bay of Bengal crossed West Bengal and Bangladesh coasts between Sagar Islands and Khepupara over Sundarbans on Friday, he said. The southwest monsoon, he said, has been active over Karnataka. However, it is expected to withdraw from all parts of the country by October 27.

Telangana needs a State Disaster Response Force

V NILESH @ Hyderabad

TELANGANA does not have a State Disaster Response Force of its own, on the lines of National Disaster Response Force recommended by the National Policy on Disaster Management, 2009. The State government also does not provide any information in the public domain regarding its State Disaster Management Authority, which must be set up as per Disaster Management Act, 2005.

Also, Express found out that most districts of Telangana, including Hyderabad, have not uploaded any data on the Indian Disaster Resource Network of the Union Ministry of Home Affairs, regarding resource inventory of disaster management related equipment and manpower.

Telangana was ranked 19 in the country in Disaster Resilience Index as per 'Disaster Score Card for States and Union Territories of India' report of the Central government, which took into account various parameters, including Disaster Preparedness, Disaster Response and Disaster Relief and Rehabilitation.

With authorities taking no action, Hyderabad's Badangpet area still reels under water | EXPRESS

This month's devastating floods in Hyderabad and last month's rains in different districts across the State, highlight the need for a concrete approach towards disaster management by the State government.

While the State government claims to have a Disaster Response Force under Greater Hyderabad Municipal Corporation, many states including Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu and Kerala have developed a state-level DRF teams, which are stationed in different regions.

Also, unlike other States, Telangana State Disaster Management Authority (SDMA) does not have a website and neither has the State government made any information regarding it available in public domain. Most States have made available their Disaster Management Plan on their SDMA's websites but there is no information made available by the Telangana government.

A Nageswara Rao, former head of Centre for Management of Environment and Disasters at the TSIRD, said: "The State Disaster Management Authority or the District Disaster Management Authorities in Telangana must start being active bodies that take stock of situation regularly and not just remain on paper. There are various guidelines by the National Disaster Management Authority which must be adhered to, including having a State-level Disaster Response Force."

REVISIT PAST LESSONS AND AVOID EXCESSIVE IMPORT RESTRICTIONS

Import substitution policies appear to be making a comeback, though their arrival is unwelcome almost everywhere. From the US to Indonesia to Pakistan, countries are either considering or have already reduced import reliance across sectors including machinery, chemicals, metals and electronics. Sri Lanka is believed to have placed the worst import controls since the collapse of the Bretton Woods system in 1971, although this could be temporary. Advanced nations, where free trade helped them prosper, are now pushing back against it in favour of protectionist sentiments. Clearly, the Covid-induced Great Recession is encouraging nationalists and mercantilists to adopt further inward-looking economic development strategies, unmindful of the outcomes.

India's Atmanirbhar Bharat initiative too saw a mixed response with critics cautioning against it citing its import-substitution tilt. Just recently, former RBI Governor Raghuram Rajan reminded us how our earlier attempts at restricting imports failed. To which, Sanjeev Sanyal, Principal Economic Advisor, retorted why Atmanirbhar Bharat wasn't a return of the pre-1991 period, but would improve resilience of competitive industries like defence and pharmaceuticals. What's less said is the fine line between non-discriminate and indefinite protection to domestic industry to make Indian goods competitive in foreign markets.

To overcome the legacy of lopsided growth of the colonial period, India first adopted an import substitution policy in the 1950s. If 1955-64 saw 24 sectors comprising consumer goods attaining 50% import substitution, the next 10 years saw another 17 sectors joining the list. But in hindsight, excessive protection prevented economies of scale, making prices of Indian products three times that of international prices, whereas in South Korea, it was 1.5 times. Even though several countries imposed import restrictions following World War 2, that strategy fell out of favour by the 1980s with the rise of the Washington Consensus supporting free trade. But India didn't move as swiftly as it should have and that was its gravest mistake. It must revisit lessons of the past and temper its enthusiasm favouring excessive anti-import policies, even though the post-Covid world entails different geopolitical realities, supply chains and consumer behaviour.

CONSENSUS NEEDED FOR AP LOCAL BODY POLLS

It appears that moves are afoot in Andhra Pradesh to resume the stalled elections to local bodies. The first sign of this came on Thursday night when State Election Commissioner (SEC) Nimmagadda Ramesh Kumar sent an invite to all political parties for consultations on October 28. The state government was quick to clarify that it had no intention of holding the elections in view of the pandemic and a possible second wave of infections. Given the bad blood between the SEC and the government, yet another collision course cannot be ruled out.

The elections to the local bodies were earlier scheduled to be held in March. At the time, the SEC had unilaterally deferred them, after the process began, citing Covid fears. In hindsight, he was right in doing so. The Jagan government had differed with him and subsequently, sought to appoint another SEC in his place through an ordinance that was struck down by the court. Now, have the views of the two sides changed? The tenure of the local bodies expired in August 2018. But the then powers-that-be showed no urgency to hold the elections within six months of the expiry of the term of the local bodies. The process began only with a rap from the courts and after the Assembly polls in 2019. Whether the delay was caused due to political considerations is anybody's guess. Had elections been held on time, this problem would not have arisen now. Coronavirus cases in the state have crossed the eight lakh mark with the positivity rate hovering at 10-11%. Over 6,000 people have lost their lives and currently, there are 31,721 active cases with the state still clocking 3,000-4,000 cases a day.

The moot question is should a democratic process be paused or should people's lives be risked? Elections are underway in Bihar and a few states are gearing up for local elections. But that can't be a reason to rush into an election. In AP, the logic cited in March still holds good. It would be better if the situation stabilises further. If polls are to be held, consensus is a must.

The mistreatment of women and the constant threat of assault is holding India back not just for reasons of human dignity and rights, but economic ones too

WITHOUT WOMEN, INDIA CANNOT PROGRESS

SALMAN ANEES SOZ

Deputy Chairperson of the professionals' wing of the Congress. Views are personal

AMIT BANDRE

When the Uttar Pradesh Police burnt the body of the Hathras rape and murder victim, it marked yet another dark chapter in the lives of Indian women. That fire was one of impunity—the impunity of the state, the impunity of caste and class, the impunity of rapists and murderers. More than anything else, that impunity was of a system stacked heavily against women. Like similar high-profile cases that came before Hathras, it is a reminder of the precarious lives Indian women lead, and how little progress has been made on gender equality. But this will not go unpunished. There is a price to pay.

Before I come to this price, take a moment to think about the Hathras victim and the likelihood of justice prevailing in her case. Within hours of her last breath escaping her lips, the government burnt her lifeless body. Her parents couldn't touch her one last time, couldn't hold her one last time, couldn't kiss her one last time. Even as her family was grieving, there were gatherings in support of the alleged rapists-cum-murderers. The CM seemed unconcerned until growing outrage forced his hand. The PM couldn't tweet a few words to soothe her family or reassure the millions of girls and women who must surely wonder if they are next. So much for beti bachao.

The mistreatment of women and the constant threat of assault is holding India back not just for reasons of human dignity and rights, but economic ones too. For a variety of reasons, including insecurity, women do not participate in economic activities as much as men do. According to a report by McKinsey and Company, a consultancy, achieving gender equality could annually add $770 billion to India's GDP by 2025. This opportunity predominantly hinges on women participating in the labour force in greater numbers. The report points out that increasing India's female labour force participation rate by just 10 percentage points would help realise 70% of this incredible opportunity. The IMF estimates that India's GDP would be 27% greater if women participated in economic activities in numbers equal to those of men.

However, India's female labour force participation (FLFP) has been declining. From a high of 31.7% in 2005, India's FLFP is now at 20.3%. Only a few nations such as Yemen, Iraq, Jordan and Iran are performing worse than India. Some might point to cheerier reasons for this decline—more females staying in school and seeking higher education, etc. But there isn't conclusive evidence supporting this claim. Instead, as the ILO's Ruchika Chaudhary and Sher Verick find, lack of representation and opportunity in high growth and high productivity sectors, social attitudes and issues related to personal safety are to blame.

This omnipresent lack of physical safety is costly. A study by the World Bank's Girija Borker found that women in Delhi don't take up better education opportunities due to the risk of street harassment. Borker finds that over 89% of students faced harassment while travelling in the city, 63% experienced unwanted staring, 50% received inappropriate comments, and 40% have been touched, groped or grabbed. Borker reports that women are willing to spend an additional ₹18,800 each year and 40 extra minutes daily in commute time on safer routes. Men are only willing to spend an additional ₹1,200. For women, opportunities come at a substantially higher cost.

> For a variety of reasons, including insecurity, women do not participate in economic activities as much as men do. According to a report by McKinsey, achieving gender equality could annually add $770 billion to India's GDP by 2025

Complicating matters further, the decision to work is not an individual one for women. For the most part, it is a household decision. You have to ask yourself about the impact of Hathras on such household decisions. Of course, there are many factors that may inhibit women from working (or encourage them to work). However, everything else being equal, Hathras hurts women's progress and it hurts India.

There are no quick fixes to addressing gender inequality and women's insecurity. This requires a substantial transformation of gender norms in India. However, cases like Hathras are reminders of much-needed police reforms and accountability. Among other things, this can include greater diversity in the police force and other public institutions. In 2019, women made up less than 9% of India's police force. Intuitively, it seems women may prefer to report cases of assault and harassment to female police officers. A UN Women analysis corroborates this. Data from 39 countries finds a positive correlation between the presence of women police officers and the reporting of sexual assault.

Deeply held societal norms must also be addressed. Starting early with children can help. School-based programmes can help adolescents recognise gender-based violence and positively transform attitudes. There is evidence that norm-changing interventions are more effective on children—in particular, on young boys who are more likely to hold inequitable ideas about gender than girls do. Instead of facile slogans, India could do with school curriculum reform. After all, textbooks are filled with gender stereotypes as a study of NCERT textbooks revealed in 2017.

We can move on from Hathras. We can forget that innocent girl, the brutality she suffered, her family's disempowerment, the impunity of men in uniform and the callousness of the state. We can forget the countless indignities that Indian women face on a daily basis. We can forget it all. But that won't change the reality that our country's future progress is inextricably linked to women, their progress, their place in society. While Hathras is deeply tragic, such tragedies can seed or advance meaningful change. But change begins with you. Do your part.

EXPLORING THE IMAGES OF GODDESS DURGA MAHISHAMARDINI

R H KULKARNI

Professor, Dept of Art History, College of Fine Arts, Karnataka Chitrakala Parishath

Goddess Mahishamardini, Durga, the divine slayer of demons, has been a favourite icon delineated by ancient Indian artists. The images of Mahishamardini-Durga evolved in visual forms right from the 2nd-1st century BCE. Durga-Devi represents the syncretised energy of the divinities. Ancient literature has fertile narrations about her. The early texts Durga Sapta Shati, Durga Bhagavata and many scriptures describe the Goddess and her valiant deeds. Rig Veda has dedicated mantras to Devi; Durga Sukta describes her varied aspects. Upanishads, epics like the Mahabharata and the Puranas have an exuberant narration of Devi as protector and slayer.

Devi has been depicted with great imagination in ancient Indian sculptures and paintings. The Goddess standing victoriously over Mahisha (buffalo demon) and combating him were popular forms. The multiple-armed Devi form with shankha, chakra and trishula has become a standard iconographic feature.

Early images of Devi were in terracotta and also stone. There are a few examples in the Satavahana, Kushana period (2nd-1st century BCE and onwards). It appears terracotta images are very tiny in size and possibly were worshipped as votive figures. An example of Devi (Kushana period) is in the Victoria and Albert Museum, London, while another fragmentary piece depicting Devi as standing on the head of Mahisha was found at Sannati in Karnataka's Gulbarga District.

Mahishamardini sculptures became quite popular from the 3rd-4th century CE onwards. The dynasties like Guptas, Vakatakas, Vishnukundins, Kalachuris and Banavasi Kadambas (4-6th century CE) have contributed a good number of Durga images with interesting forms. Regional variations in style and mode of depictions of Devi sculptures may be seen in these periods. The Mahishamardini sculpture at Udaigiri Caves in Vidisha, Madhya Pradesh, has an aggressive form of Devi. She has vanquished Mahisha and is celebrating the victory. Banavasi Kadamba period examples are iconic in appearance. Images from Talagunda and Devihal (Dharwad) depict her with a heavy trishula that pierces Mahisha. The Talagunda image has heavy-looking features, while the Devihal one has a more refined and rhythmic appearance. An image from Jambehalli in Uttara Kannada District has perhaps more sophisticated features in portrayal as well as style.

Badami Chalukya artists added expressive features to the image of Mahishamardini. The Devi image in Badami Cave-1 celebrates her victory over the demon. Similar examples with variants are found in Aihole's Ravanphadi Cave and Durga Temple. The Ravanphadi image of Devi (ca. 560 CE) may be identified as Durga Mahishamardini as she has her vehicle, the lion. The vehicle appears here for the first time in Karnataka. Perhaps the most dynamic image of Mahishamardini is in a subshrine of Pattadakal's Virupaksha Temple. In this image, the demon is in anthropomorphic form—his horns indicate he is Mahisha (buffalo). Devi, with all vigour, suppresses him with her left feet pressed over his head. With two hands on her right side, she pierces the spear and sword into his chest and neck. It is perhaps the best of its type in Indian art as the Chalukya artists were known for their creative expressions.

One of the most striking and unique images of Devi in her combative posture is found in a cave temple in Tamil Nadu's Mamallapuram. A seventh century image, it shows Devi in an athletic posture—she is shown riding a lion and fighting the demon who is in zoo-anthropomorphic form. Mahishamardini is riding a lion with her legs spread on either side like a horse rider. She has eight arms that hold an arrow, bow, shankha, chakra, sword, shield, gantha (bell) and trishula. She is shown as a warrior figure fighting the demon. The figure of Mahisha is larger and holding a heavy mace. The large rectangular composition of this panel has many gana figures as the retinue of the energetic Devi. This form of Durga has become very popular in TN temples and even in Karnataka as well as Maharashtra.

The Mallikarjuna Temple in Pattadakal, Karnataka, has an almost similar image of a fighting Durga. However, here it is a very small image and indeed will not match the grandeur of the Mamallapuram sculpture. Almost 100 years later, a similar large wall sculpture of Durga Mahishamardini was carved at the famous Kailasanatha temple in Ellora, Maharashtra. Here, Devi is seated in a side posture on a lion; she fights the demon who is reciprocal in his posture. Devi's persona looks very athletic and young. The fighting is being witnessed by the Ashta Dikpalakas, who are present in the upper strata of the panel. The combat scene is undoubtedly inspired by the Mamallapuram version of Devi and is redesigned and depicted here by the artist.

Mahishamardini/Durga Bhagavati as one of the premier deities of panchayatana practice (the five premier divinities are Rudra, Vishnu, Ganesha, Durga and Surya) becomes omnipresent with her nine forms as Nava-Durga (Brahmacharini, Chandraghanta, Kushmanda, Skandamata, Katyayani, Kaalaratri, Shailaputri, Siddharatri and MahaGauri), whose association with Navaratri is inseparable. Artists, besides the religious association, have delineated the figures with great vivacity and reverence. Durga dominates the Indian religious belief system as a popular cult deity.

Vaccine promise deplorable

It is shocking to note that ahead of the Bihar polls, the BJP has come out with a promise of free Covid vaccines for all. Deplorably, the vaccine has become part of poll rhetoric even before it is available.
R Sivakumar, Chennai

Other states should learn

The world has not witnessed a danger like the coronavirus in a century. It is not surprising that Bihar, MP and TN have promised free vaccination against Covid. This is an exemplary initiative. It is the moral obligation of other states in the country to follow suit.
M R Nair, Nileshwar

Needed in Bihar, but...

Providing free vaccines to people in Bihar is right considering the state's poor economic situation. But parties should not appeal to voters using the vaccine.
Gokul Krishna, Kottayam

Freebies a way of life

Promising freebies has become an accepted way of fighting polls. In a sense, the BJP is right in its stand as Bihar is one of the poorest states and many cannot afford to buy a life-saving vaccine. It is hoped that one day, someone would come up with a vaccine that would immunise people from falling prey to freebies.
M Somasekhar Prasad, Hyderabad

Natl parties shouldn't do it

It is disheartening to see national parties using a vaccine, even before one is invented, for political purposes. If a regional party makes such a promise, one can understand it, but it is not acceptable for a party like the BJP to do so as all Indian citizens should be treated equally.
T Kailash Ditya, Hyderabad

Prevention better than cure

While the PM said nothing new in his address to the nation about precautions to keep Covid at bay, its timing was relevant as there is a tendency to let one's hair down during festivals.
C V Aravind, Bengaluru

Protectionist mindset

Our nation had a semi-closed economy after Independence. (Learning from India's bad experience with protectionism, Oct 23). So the necessary technology transfers were not initiated. Even after 1991, the protectionism mindset of the bureaucracy did not wane.
A M Chakravarty, Hyderabad

Striking a fine balance

While the objective of Atmanirbhar is noble, this should not come at the cost of the country's exports. The government, while framing policies to encourage self-reliance, needs to strike a fine balance.
R Sriramprasad, Bengaluru

Raising marriage age

The Centre's plan to raise the marriage age for women from 18 to 21 can help empower them through enhanced educational possibilities. The IUML women wing's objections citing possibilities of live-in relationships and illegitimate pregnancies, which can happen nevertheless, hold no water.
Dr George Jacob, Kochi

K'taka has done well

Karnataka has attracted investment worth ₹1.38 lakh crore. This is laudable. Even after the lockdown, its unemployment recovered faster than other big states.

Wastage of potable water will invite 5-year jail term

Bring penal measures for groundwater misuse too, Centre tells states

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

MISUSE of potable water will be an offence in India, with violations punishable with up to five years in jail or up to ₹1 lakh fine, according to a new directive by the Centre.

The Central Ground Water Authority (CGWA) under the Ministry of Jal Shakti has issued a notification under Section 5 of the Environment (Protection) Act, 1986 in this regard.

The notification came following direction of the National Green Tribunal, which was hearing a petition by one Rajendra Tyagi and the NGO FRIENDS, seeking to make water wastage and misuse a punishable offence in the country.

As per the notification, the civic bodies dealing with water supply in all states and Union Territories shall be duty-bound to ensure that there is no waste or misuse of potable water tapped from underground and evolve a compliance mechanism, with coercive measures for violations.

The notification further states that no person in the country shall waste or misuse potable water resources tapped from underground.

"Failure to comply with this notification, in each such incident of failure or contravention, be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extent do five years or with fine which may extend to ₹1 lakh or with both, and in case the failure or contravention continues, with additional fine, which may extend to ₹5,000 for every day during which such failure or contravention continues after the conviction for the first such offence, under Section 15 of the Environment (Protection) Act, 1986," said Akash Vashishtha, the counsel in the matter.

The Centre has also written to all states to evolve and implement mechanisms with coercive measures, including penalty, for wasting groundwater.

The NGT had directed the Union Jal Shakti Ministry that regulators should ensure that wastage of water is not profitable and the cost of such wastage is recovered.

As per the Report of National Commission on Integrated Water Resources Development, the total water availability of India received through precipitation is about 4,000 billion cubic-meter (BCM) per annum but the utilizable water availability is limited to only 1,122 BCM.

Overflowing overhead tanks, excessive use in flushing in toilets, wastage of water in bathing/hand-wash/kitchen use and leakage/seepage during transmission/distribution of water from up to the consumer end were flagged as some of the key sources of water wastage by the ministry.

Don says India's air 'filthy', harps on his own climate record

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

US President Donald Trump, in the second presidential election debate with his Democratic rival Joe Biden on Thursday, referred to India as filthy and its air quality to be filthy.

"Look at China, how filthy it is. Look at Russia. Look at India. The air is filthy... I pulled us out of the Paris Accord as we were going to have to take out trillions of dollars and we were treated very unfairly," Trump said in what seemed to be his justification for walking out of the Paris Accord on climate change, which aims to cool the earth by two degree Celsius.

"We have the best environmental numbers, ozone numbers, and so many other numbers. In the meantime, China, Russia, India all these countries they're spewing stuff into the air," he alleged.

This is not the first time that the US President, the Republican candidate, has slammed India during his campaign. Earlier, when questioned about his handling of the coronavirus pandemic, Trump had said that countries like China, Russia and India do not furnish accurate number of cases and deaths.

"When you talk about numbers you don't know how many people died in China, you don't know how many people died in Russia, you don't know how many people died in India. They don't exactly give you a straight count," he had said.

Trump's comments come days ahead of US Secretary of State Mike Pompeo and Secretary of Defense Mark Esper's visit to New Delhi for the 2+2 Dialogue where the two countries are expected to sign the Basic Exchange and Cooperation Agreement for geo-spatial cooperation. The signing of the agreement will give India access to data from US satellites for military navigation and targeting military assets.

According to the Global Carbon Projection, India is the fourth highest emitter of carbon dioxide while the US is the second largest. The top four emitters are China (27%), the US (15%), the European Union (10%) and India (7%).

No action against Hafiz Saeed, Pak to remain in FATF grey list till Feb 2021

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

PAKISTAN will remain in the grey list of the Financial Action Task Force (FATF) till February 2021 as it has failed to comply with six of the 27 action plans recommended by the terror finance watchdog. These included the country's failure to take action against two of India's most wanted terrorists, Maulana Masood Azhar and Hafiz Saeed, officials said.

The virtual plenary of FATF concluded that Pakistan will continue to reman in 'grey' list. The decision was taken after a thorough review of its performance in fulfilling the global commitments and standards on the fight against money laundering and terror financing.

"Pakistan remains in the increased monitoring list or the grey list... It failed to fulfil six of the 27 mandates given to check terror funding

Marcus Pleyer, FATF president

"Pakistan remains in the increased monitoring list or the grey list," FATF president Marcus Pleyer said at a virtual press conference from Paris.

Sources said four nominating countries — the US, the UK, France and Germany — were not satisfied with Islamabad's commitment in taking strong action against the terror groups operating from its soil.

Sources said the obligations that Pakistan failed to fulfill include failure to take action against UN designated terrorists like Jaish-e-Mohammed chief Azhar, Lashker-e-Taiba founder Saeed and Zakiur Rehman Lakhvi.

Besides, the FATF noted that there was sudden disappearance of the names of more than 4,000 terrorists from its original list of 7,600 under Schedule IV of its Anti Terrorism Act.

The FATF president said Islamabad must impose sanctions and prosecute those involved in terror financing. Pakistan's position will be up for review in FATF's next meeting in February. "FATF will send a team for on-site visit once Pakistan complies with the remaining six conditions. Then only a decision will be taken if it comes out of the grey list or not," Pleyer said.

India gets ILO chair; relief to govt facing fire over new laws

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

INDIA will assume the chairmanship of the governing body of the International Labour Organization (ILO) in November after a gap of 35 years and will play an important role in the decision-making process.

Labour Secretary Apurva Chandra will assume charge as chairman of the governing body. His tenure will end in June 2021. The governing body is the highest executive body of the ILO which decides policies, programs, budgets and agenda. It also elects the director-general of the ILO.

The development comes months after the ILP expressed deep concern over India's labour law amendments. "Chandra will be presiding over ILO governing body in November and apprise the global body, with 187 nation members, of the transformational initiatives taken by government in removing the rigidities of labour market besides making its intention clear about universalisation of social security," a government statement said.

India's assumption of the chairmanship is likely to provide a breather to the Centre which has come under the ILO's radar over its 'anti-worker' policies.

In May, the top labour body had urged PM Narendra Modi to send out a clear message to the states on their compliance with international labour standards. Trade unions, who billed the reforms as anti-worker, had written to the ILO over the alleged violation of the ILO convention.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

IMD launches flash flood guidance services for country, South Asian neighbours

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

INDIA has launched first-of-its kind Flash Flood Guidance services for South Asian countries — India, Bangladesh, Bhutan, Nepal and Sri Lanka — to issue impact-based forecasting of floods, which are very sudden and of short duration, at watershed and also city level.

The Flash Flood Guidance is a robust system designed by the India Meteorological Department (IMD) to provide the necessary products in real-time to support the development of warnings for flash floods about 6-12 hours in advance at the watershed level with resolution of 4km x 4km for the flash flood prone South Asian countries.

The IMD had tested the performance of the system during recent monsoon season in the pre-operational mode and the Flash Flood Bulletins were issued to National Hydrological and Meteorological Services in the Region for its validation. The system has in-depth science, dynamics and diagnostics to provide guidance for the possible occurrences of flash floods at local level.

M. Mohapatra, Director General, IMD, and Permanent Representative of India with the World Meteorological Organisation (WMO) highlighted the salient features of the system and appreciated the collaborative work done in the field of capacity building for forecasting hydro-meteorological hazards.

Mohapatra assured the member nations that the guidance for flash floods in the form of threats (6 hours in advance) and risks (24 hours in advance) will be provided by the Regional Centre to the National Meteorological and Hydrological Services, National and State Disaster Management Authorities and all other stakeholders for taking necessary mitigation measures to reduce the loss of life and property.

Recognising that flash floods have a particularly disastrous impact on lives and properties of the affected populations, the 15th WMO Congress had approved the implementation of a Flash Flood Guidance System project with global coverage that had been developed by the WMO Commission for Hydrology jointly with the WMO Commission for Basic Systems.

Lack of warning capabilities

Flash floods are highly localised with very high peak and usually have less than six hours between the occurrence of rainfall and peak flood. There is lack of flash flood warning capabilities across the world.

Officials briefed Birla about the progress made in the shifting of facilities and other infrastructure from the area proposed for the construction.

"MoHUA officials briefed Birla about the proposed movement plan of VIPs and staff during this period, including during Parliament sessions. The existing building will be retro-fitted to provide more functional space for events to ensure its usage along with the new one," said an official.

Elgar: Court takes cognizance of charge sheet

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mumbai

A Mumbai court on Friday took cognizance of the supplementary charge sheet filed against activist Anand Teltumbde and seven others in connection with the Elgar Parishad case.

After going through the charge sheet, Special NIA Judge D E Kothalikar said there was prima facie material against the accused.

The NIA had earlier this month submitted the supplementary charge sheet against eight activists, including Gautam Navlakha and Hany Babu. As many as 16 activists, including octogenarians Varavara Rao and Stan Swamy, have been arrested in the Elgar Parishad case so far under IPC and the stringent UAPA Act.

Violence had erupted in the vicinity of a war memorial in Bhima Koregaon near Pune on January 1, 2018, allegedly after provocative speeches were made during the Elgar Parishad conclave held a day earlier at Shaniwarwada in Pune city.

75 community bunkers ready at Tangdhar near LoC to shield locals during Pak firing

MAYANK SINGH @ Tangdhar (LoC)

J&K's Tangdhar village near the Line of Control will soon have dozens of community bunkers for its residents to protect them against firings by Pakistani soldiers. In July, two villagers had died in a ceasefire violation by Pakistan.

Bilal Bhat, Sub Divisional Magistrate of Karnah, said the Home Ministry had approved 120 community bunkers. "We have completed 75 such bunkers. The rest are in advanced stages of construction."

The government had initially assisted the residents in making individual bunkers. After a ceasefire came into effect, these bunkers were turned either into store rooms or as septic tanks. "The government had initially proposed 60 large community bunkers after the Pakistan troops started targeting the Indian positions as well as civilians of the area. For better utility, the number of bunkers was raised to 120," said Bhat.

At least 50 people can be accommodated in each bunker which costs around ₹10 lakh. A bunker is a structure made of concrete which can withstand bullets and small mortar fire.

Tangdhar has a population of around 70,000 — composed of Paharis, Gujjars and Sikhs — and is a part of Kupwara district of J&K. It has a peculiar geographic location with Pakistan encircling it from three sides with the Neelum valley to the north and Leepa Valley in south.

Army sources said the place is the shortest route to Kashmir, becoming an easy target of the Pakistani side to push in terrorists. It is connected with the rest of Kashmir by Sadhana Pass at over 10,000 ft. The IAF fighters had entered Balakot in Pakistan in February 2019 through this area.

Khalilur Rehman, sarpanch of Sudpura village, said the government should sanction individual bunkers because during shelling, people run for their life and it takes some time to find a community bunker. Besides, the cattle left behind remain vulnerable.

PDP chief Mehbooba Mufti also claims that her party was not 'comfortable and compatible with today's India'

'Won't raise Tricolour till Article 370 restored'

PDP president Mehbooba Mufti informed the media in Srinagar on Friday that all options, including peaceful street agitations, are on the table | PTI

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

IN a sign of defiance against the revocation of Article 370 by the Centre last year, People's Democratic Party chief and former CM Mehbooba Mufti on Friday said her party would not be raising the Tricolour till Jammu and Kashmir's flag and Constitution is restored.

She also announced she would not be contesting any election without J&K state's flag and constitution. She also claimed that her party was not "comfortable and compatible with today's India".

Addressing a maiden press conference post her release from 14-month detention, Mehbooba said, "If some people think that parties and people in Kashmir will forget the Kashmir issue and Article 370 after some time, they are living in a dream world."

Thousands of people, she said, have sacrificed for the Kashmir issue. "Now it is the turn of the leaders to give blood and I will be the first to do it".

She said her struggle won't stop at restoration of J&K's special but will go beyond—for the resolution of the Kashmir issue. "Ours is a political fight and we will fight peacefully."

"All options, including peaceful street agitations, are on table," she said. "This is a long drawn fight and we will use all peaceful means for restoration of Article 370 and whatever has been snatched from us."

Asked if her party would hit the streets for its demands, she said nothing can be ruled out. "I have been a street fighter."

She alleged the Centre expected violence post Article 370 revocation. "They left no stone unturned to instigate people by changing laws, whether it was the domicile policy, the official languages, or ignoring Muslim officers in the Secretariat or taking away J&K resources."

Mehbooba along with other mainstream leaders was arrested after Article 370 scrapping on August 5, 2019 and was among a dozen mainstream leaders booked under the PSA before her release early this month. "This country can be run on the basis of the Constitution of India and not on the BJP manifesto," she said.

Have CD if probe agencies are set up on me: Khadse

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

SENIOR Maharashtra leader Eknath Khadse joined the NCP on Friday and sent a veiled warning to the BJP saying that he has a CD in case if anyone tries to viciously uses investigating agencies against him.

Khadse, his daughter Rohini and many BJP leaders from northern Maharashtra joined the Nationalist Congress Party (NCP) on Friday in the presence of NCP chief Sharad Pawar and other senior party leaders.

> Just as I worked hard for the BJP, I will work for the NCP. I have not made any demands, but only wish to work for the people of Maharashtra. Jalgaon is firmly behind me
>
> Eknath Khadse, NCP leader

The veteran politician said he was a seven-time MLA, an opposition leader, and a minister and contributed for the development of the party (BJP) at every nook and corner of the state. "But there was conspiracy to destroy my political career by setting various inquiries on flimsy charges. I discussed a lot about what to do, but my seniors in BJP also expressed their helplessness to help me. However, they hinted to join the NCP and work under the guidance of Sharad Pawar," Khadse said.

He said that his erstwhile party's local leadership used anti-corruption bureau and other agencies to harass him. "If they continue to do and use the ED against me, then I will bring out the CD."

At Khadse's induction programme, Pawar acknowledged his colleague's mass connect with the people in north Maharashtra. "This entire part was the stronghold of the Congress party. The first rural Congress conference in pre-independence took place in Jalgaon only. But in later period, the local leadership failed to nurture the young leadership and that work was done by Khadse. We are happy that he is with us and will fill the leadership vacuum in north Maharashtra," Pawar said.

Khadse set his goal straight—he would expand the NCP in North Maharashtra like he did for the BJP earlier. "I will honestly work for the NCP like in the BJP without any second thought. I just need Sharad Pawar support to expand the party," he asserted.

Over 9K priests get Puja dole from Mamata

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

THE Mamata Banerjee government disbursed its monthly financial assistance to the bank accounts of 9,500 Hindu priests before Durga Puja after a list of beneficiaries was made on a war footing post the chief minister's announcement in mid-September.

Playing a soft Hindutva card to counter BJP's effort to consolidate Hindu votes, Mamata had announced an honorarium of ₹1,000 per month before the start of the festive season. The other announcement of constructing houses for poor priests could not be implemented because procedural complications.

''It was a tough job. We got one month time to shortlist the eligible priests across the state. Officials in district carried out the job which helped us to comply with the chief minister's instruction,'' said an official of the state government.

Her main rival BJP never misses opportunity to accuse her of adopting minority appeasement policy. "Once the houses for the poor priests will be constructed, it will definitely give us dividend in the next year's election,'' a Trinamool leader said.

Republic TV faces FIR for defaming Mumbai Police, commissioner

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

THE Mumbai Police lodged an FIR against Republic TV for airing reports which it alleged were defaming the force and trying to cause "disaffection" among its staff.

Reacting to the development, the news channel termed it as "shocking", "witch-hunt" and "a shocking assault on media rights" by the Mumbai Police.

Republic TV's executive editor Niranjan Narayanswamy, deputy news editor Sagarika Mitra, anchor and associate editor Shivani Gupta, deputy editor Shawan Sen, editorial staffers and news room in charge were charged with Section 500 (defamation) and 34 (acts done by several persons in furtherance of common intention) of IPC apart from Section 3 (1) of the Police (Incitement to Disaffection) Act, 1922. Offences under Section 3 (1) of the Act are non-bailable and can result in imprisonment of up to three years.

Shashikant Pawar, a sub-inspector, lodged the criminal case at the NM Joshi Marg police station. In his complaint, Pawar said that the news channel and its staffers aired certain reports on October 22 which, among other things, sought to deliberately defame the Mumbai Police and its chief Param Bir Singh.

The report in question pertains to one headlined as 'Revolt against Param Bir? Senior Officers Part of Probe Give Details', which was monitored Pawar on Thursday evening.

According to the complainant, the report claimed that officers of the Mumbai Police were on the verge of rebelling against Singh, citing sources contending that officers were disregarding his orders, which ostensibly spoiled the image of the police force.

In its reaction, Republic TV said the FIR was a "shocking assault on media rights". "This is happening for the first time in the world, the Mumbai Police Commissioner is not above the Constitution and the law," it tweeted. "...We will fight each and every strong-arm tactic."

AMARINDER WARNS BJP AGAINST DIVIDING PUNJAB

CHANDIGARH: Punjab Chief Minister Amarinder Singh on Friday charged the BJP with trying to divide the society on caste lines, asserting he would not allow that party to impose its "vicious agenda" on the state.

The BJP had on Thursday organized 'Dalit Insaf Yatra' in Jalandhar to protest against alleged atrocities on the Scheduled Caste community and over a scam in a scholarship scheme for post-matric Scheduled Caste students. The police stopped the yatra from Jalandhar to the CM's residence in Chandigarh, saying the organizers did not have the permission.

"I will not let them disturb the peaceful atmosphere of Punjab at any cost. The BJP had no moral right to talk about Dalit rights, which they had been brazenly trampling wherever they are in power," said the CM.

He pointed to the shocking statistics that showed that Uttar Pradesh, under BJP rule, accounts for over 25% of total cases of atrocities against SC communities in the country, and had recorded the highest number of such incidents in 2018. "Is this your definition of justice for Dalits? Is this what you are offering to the SC people of Punjab?" questioned the CM. ENS

Teen hangs self after 6 marks in NEET; OMR sheet reveals actual score 590

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

SHOCKED over getting just six marks in the National Eligibility-cum-Entrance Test (NEET), a teenager allegedly ended her life at her house in Madhya Pradesh's Chhindwara district.

Her parents tried to cheer up Vidhi Suryavanshi, 18, as her OMR sheet revealed that she had scored 590 marks in the entrance test held for medical aspirants.

Despite being told by parents that she had got 590 marks, the acutely depressed teenager hanged herself in the house on October 20. "Vidhi was found hanging to death in her house on Tuesday. The family reported the matter the next day. Primary probe suggests that less marks in the NEET triggered the suicide, but further investigations are underway," said Parasiya police station in-charge Sumer Singh Jagte.

The National Testing Agency has already released the NEET provisional answer keys of all the sections of the NEET test and NEET OMR sheets of candidates.

The reported case which is being probed by the Parasiya police in Chhindwara district, has been highlighted by Congress MP Nakul Nath on the social media platform Facebook.

"How can such a serious lapse be allowed to happen in such national entrance test and it's result. I appeal the government to immediately take cognizance of the matter and take stringent action against those found responsible for the grave lapse," the Chhindwara MP wrote in a Facebook post on Thursday.

Tit for tat? Cong complains to EC about MP minister

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

DAYS after MP Congress chief Kamal Nath kicked up a row by referring to Women and child development minister Imarti Devi as "item," the Congress on Friday complained to the Election Commission against her for making the identical remark against Nath's mother and sister.

The complaint was submitted to the Chief Electoral Officer by a Congress delegation led by Nath's media coordinator Narendra Saluja. The complaint alleged that Imarti had made derogatory remarks against Nath's late mother and sister. "We demand strict action against the minister for making such derogatory remarks," the Congress said.

Two days back, spiritual guru Pramod Krishnam shared a video on Twitter, in which Imarti was heard saying, "Kamal Nath is from Bengal, who came to Madhya Pradesh just to become CM. Since the time he lost the CM's post, he has lost his mental balance too. His mother and sister could be items of Bengal, but we don't know about it."

Saluja submitted another complaint to the CEO demanding action against the minister and BJP candidate Girraj Dandotiya for using threatening language against Nath at a meeting on Sunday. RS member Jyotiraditya Scindia was also present in that event.

Mute button effect? Final US prez debate escapes petulance

After a raucous first debate led organisers to introduce safeguards, surprising civility marked the final face-off

NO DEARTH OF FALSEHOODS

TRUMP

CLAIM: "We're rounding the turn. We're rounding the corner. It's going away"

FACT: No, the coronavirus isn't going away. It's coming back. New cases are on the rise toward their summer peak. Deaths have also been increasing

CLAIM: Speaking about the coronavirus, Trump said: "2.2 million people modeled out were expected to die. We closed up the greatest economy in the world in order to fight this horrible disease"

FACT: The 2.2 million figure is a description from a report by the Imperial College Covid-19 Response Team of what could happen if no action were taken at all. The high toll projection has always been considered an unlikely worst case scenario, that would only occur if no preventative measures were taken

CLAIM: "China is paying, they're paying billions and billions of dollars," Trump said, apparently referring to money from tariffs imposed by his administration

FACT: As the Urban-Brookings Tax Policy Center notes, a tariff "is almost always paid directly by the importer (usually a domestic firm), and never by the exporting country"

CLAIM: Speaking about children who were separated from parents at the US-Mexico border: "They are so well taken care of; they're in facilities that are so clean"

FACT: Not so. At the height of the family separations in 2018, Border Patrol facilities were cramped with migrants who were kept in squalid conditions

BIDEN

CLAIM: "Not one single person with private insurance would lose their insurance under my plan, nor did they under Obamacare, they did not lose their insurance, unless they chose they wanted to go to something else"

FACT: He's wrong about Obamacare

CLAIM: "He says about the Poor Boys, last time we were on a stage here, said—I told them to stand down and stand ready. Come on. This guy has a dog whistle as big as a fog horn."

FACT: That is not exactly what Trump said and that is not the name of the neo-fascist group

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump and challenger Joe Biden's final debate on Thursday was a starkly more civil affair than their messy first showdown.

Whether because of the mute button this time or the terrible reviews in the first debate — especially for Trump — the candidates interrupted each other far less frequently, even as they clashed on issues including the coronavirus, crime and global warming.

While Trump and Biden responded to the other's answers — shaking their heads disapprovingly or smiling, in the case of Biden — the two largely avoided speaking over each other. Trump, in particular, was on his best behavior, especially early on, and especially when it came to the moderator, whom he'd repeatedly denigrated before the debate.

"So far, I respect very much the way you're handling this," Trump said to NBC's Kristen Welker when she gave him time to respond to Biden at one point.

The scene inside the sparsely populated college arena was representative of the performance on stage. The audience followed the rules exactly as laid out — they were remarkably silent throughout the 90-minute debate, and everyone appeared to be wearing masks.

Because of the pandemic, only around 200 people were seated inside the debate hall.

A member of each of the Trump and Biden campaigns monitored the person who controlled the mute button backstage, Fahrenkopf told The Associated Press, noting that the button would not be used beyond the first four minutes of each topic.

The button was among a handful of changes implemented by the nonpartisan debate commission to help ensure a more orderly debate following the raucous and widely criticised opening debate 23 days ago.

All audience members and support staff were required to undergo coronavirus testing onsite and wore colored wristbands as evidence of their negative tests. The crowd, was remarkably silent throughout the 90-minute debate. Agencies

19-yr-old researched killing Biden

Washington: A 19-year-old man charged with possession of child pornography and arrested over a van-load of weapons had conducted internet searches related to killing Democratic presidential candidate Joe Biden, according to court documents. The search also found books on bomb making, $509,000 in US currency and drawings of swastikas and planes crashing into buildings, according to an October 6 court filing

Teen plotted attack on black church

Gainesville: A white 17-year-old girl was sentenced on Thursday to four years in juvenile detention for planning to stab north Georgia churchgoers to death because they were Black. The girl pleaded guilty to attempted murder as part of a plea agreement and was sentenced in Gainesville, Georgia. She will be on probation for 10 years and must stay at least 45 metres from any African Methodist Episcopal church during that time

Not without taunts and jibes

US President Donald Trump and challenger Joe Biden traded accusations of graft and clashed on the Covid-19 pandemic Thursday but without landing a knockout blow 12 days before the election in a final debate that many saw as Trump's last big chance to change the narrative

PANDEMIC STILL A DRAG FOR TRUMP

Trump's difficulty articulating a defence of his handling of the coronavirus remains a drag on his campaign

Asked to outline his plan for the future, Trump instead asserted his prior handling was without fault and predicted a rosy reversal to the pandemic

Biden, who has sought to prosecute Trump's handling of the virus in his closing pitch to voters, came prepared. "Anyone who's responsible for that many deaths should not remain as president," he said

TRUMP COMPARES SELF TO LINCOLN

Biden laced into Trump over his attacks on Muslims, insults against Mexico and his failure to condemn far-right extremists

Trump, for his part, claimed his four years in office have been a time of historic improvement for African Americans. "Not since Abraham Lincoln has anybody done what I have done for the Black community," Trump said

BROMANCE WITH KIM DRAWS SCRUTINY

Trump's bromance with North Korean leader Kim Jong Un was targeted by Biden, who accused the president of legitimising a dictator

"We're not in a war with North Korea. Having a good relationship with leaders of other countries is a good thing," an outraged Trump said

"We had a good relationship with Hitler before he invaded Europe," Biden slyly retorted

China warns of action if US sells arms to Taiwan

BEIJING

CHINA has vowed to retaliate if the US proceeds with the sale of advanced weaponry to Taiwan worth more than a billion dollars.

The statement from China's defense ministry gave no specifics, but the development marks a further deterioration in ties between Beijing and Washington that have hit their lowest ebb.

The statement issued on Thursday night demanded the cancellation of the sale and an end to all interactions between the US and Taiwanese militaries in order to "avoid serious repercussions for relations between China and the US and their armed forces and peace and stability in the Taiwan Strait." Failure to do so would "compel the Chinese side to fight back resolutely," the statement said. PTI

Singapore and Germany on Friday agreed to establish a reciprocal green lane, allowing direct flights between the two countries for essential business and official purposes. Eligible applicants for travel will have to abide by the coronavirus prevention and public health measures mutually agreed by the two sides, foreign ministries of the two countries said in a joint statement on Friday. "The reciprocal green lane will enable essential travel for business or official purposes, via direct flights between both countries," the official statement said. Operational details of the green lane, including the procedural requirements, health protocols, and application process, will be announced at a later date, according to a Channel News Asia report.

SL oppn members to face scrutiny for backing 20A

COLOMBO

EIGHT members of the Opposition, who defied their party's whip and voted in favour of the 20th Amendment to Sri Lanka's Constitution to bolster the powers of President Gotabaya Rajapaksa, will face disciplinary action, party officials said on Friday.

The Parliament on Thursday passed the 20th Amendment to the Constitution with two-thirds majority. The second reading of the 20th Amendment was passed in Parliament with 156 members voting in favour of the bill and 65 against it in the 223-member Parliament. Only 213 members were present at the time of voting.

The government on September 2 gazetted 20A to replace the 19th Amendment introduced in 2015 that curtailed the powers of the president and strengthened the role of Parliament.

Among the defectors was the main opposition Samagi Jana Balawegaya's (SJB) woman parliamentarian Diana Gamage.

"We will be taking disciplinary action against her," SJB general secretary Ranjith Madduma Bandara said.

Gamage and seven other parliamentarians voted in favour of 20A.

Among them are six Muslim members from two Muslim constituent parties of SJB.

The sole Tamil defector was Aravind Kumar from Tamil Progressive Alliance (TPF). TPF leader and parliamentarian Mano Ganesan said the party Politburo will take action against Kumar.

Interestingly, all members of parliament from the ruling Sri Lankan People's Party, who had expressed opposition to some of the clauses in the amendment, voted en bloc in support.

Inspired by the opposition within the government quarters, the Opposition had called for a separate vote on the clause which permits dual citizens to hold public office.

The vote was defeated with one plus from the Opposition. None of those from the government supported the Opposition's call for a vote. AFP

UK signs first post-Brexit trade deal with Japan

GENEVA

BRITAIN hailed its first major post-Brexit trade deal on Friday after signing an agreement with Japan that it said shows it can stand alone on the global stage, as talks on a pact with the EU remain bogged down.

London said the pact would boost business between the two by £15.2 billion and proved others could be signed elsewhere.

The deal comes as Prime Minister Boris Johnson pursues his "Global Britain" strategy that seeks potentially more advantageous trade deals than those that were negotiated while it was an EU member.

The UK-Japan Comprehensive Economic Partnership Agreement covers sectors including food, textiles and technology and largely replicates the existing EU-Japan arrangement, which will no longer apply to Britain at the end of this year. It is due to take effect on January 1.

After the signing ceremony in Tokyo, Britain's International Trade Minister Liz Truss said: "It used to be said that an independent UK would not be able to strike independent trade deals, or they would take years to conclude. But today we prove the naysayers wrong."

Truss also said the deal "paves the way" for Britain to join the Comprehensive and Progressive Agreement for Trans-Pacific Partnership between 11 countries including Canada, Mexico and Japan. AFP

'Sudan to recognise Israel, Saudi next'

WASHINGTON

DAYS after the White House announced that it would remove Sudan's from the list of state sponsors of terrorism, the country on Friday agreed to be the latest Arab nation to recognise Israel.

The United Arab Emirates and Bahrain signed an accord at the White House last month to normalise relations with Israel, but Sudan carries added symbolism as an Arab nation that has been at war with Israel.

Reporters were escorted into the Oval Office where Trump was on speakerphone with Sudan's leadership and Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu, a close ally of the embattled Republican president.

"This truly changes the region. It changes the lives of our peoples for the better and allows us to focus on the task of building our nations, building our future," Netanyahu was heard telling Trump.

Trump said that more Arab states are also looking to recognize Israel including regional power Saudi Arabia, home to Islam's two holiest cities.

"We have at least five that want to come in," Trump told reporters in the White House.

"We expect Saudi Arabia will be one of those countries," he added, as he praised the country's "highly respected" rulers King Salman and Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman. Both the United States and Israel committed to boosting trade with Sudan, an impoverished, conflict-ridden nation that had faced years of criticism over its violent internal campaigns until the fall of dictator Omar al-Bashir last year.

Although Trump did not mention any other countries, Oman and Mauritania are among the other countries in the region that have been tipped to normalize ties.

In a three-way statement, Sudan and Israel said delegations would met "in the coming weeks to negotiate agreements of cooperation" including in agriculture issues, aviation and migration.

"The leaders agreed to the normalisation of relations between Sudan and Israel and to end the state of belligerence between their nations," it said, without setting a date.

As part of the deal to get off the terror blacklist, the White House said that Sudan's transitional government had deposited $335 million to compensate survivors and family members of anti-US attacks that took place when Bashir's regime welcomed Al-Qaeda.

Sudan's civilian prime minister, Abdulla Hamdok, thanked Trump over the terror designation without mentioning recognition of Israel — a step he had earlier said he was not empowered to take.

"This decision will open wide the door to Sudan's deserved return to the international community and the international financial and banking sector, as well as to regional and international investment," Hamdok's office said in a statement. Agencies

Tense calm in Nigeria after two days of unrest

Lagos: Barricades and police checkpoints dotted the empty streets of Lagos Friday as authorities tried to return order to Africa's biggest city, under curfew following days of violent unrest. Sporadic gunfire was heard Friday morning but the city centre appeared calmer by afternoon. The shooting of peaceful protesters by security forces on Tuesday was followed by two days of unrest with numerous shops and buildings in the economic hub looted and vandalised. Heavily armed police stopped a handful of cars left driving in the deserted streets on Friday while a few people tried to find their way home after the city was put under lockdown

Investment of ₹500L cr needed for $5 tn economy

Annual investment in key areas will need to more than double by FY27 to reach target

SUNITHA NATTI

WHAT will it take to become a $5 trillion economy? All we need is ₹500 lakh crore, according to Care Ratings.

That's nearly five times more than the ₹100 lakh crore worth infrastructure investments announced by the government last year-much before the Covid pandemic struck the global economy.

Amid a sharp growth contraction, fresh investments in infrastructure and manufacturing required to achieve the GDP growth would have to be progressively increased annually from ₹43 lakh to ₹103 lakh crore between FY21 and FY27, Care Ratings noted in its report on 'Rebooting Economy through Financial Market Reforms'.

> While a part of this investment would be borne by the central and state governments, the main enabler will be the financial sector viz. banks, debt capital markets and foreign capital.
>
> Care Ratings

Total investments during this 7-year period would be ₹498 lakh crore. As a percentage, it amounts to 25 per cent of GDP.

Of the ₹100 lakh crore infrastructure investment pipeline as per the NIIP, the central and sate government investments would be ₹59 lakh crore during FY21 and FY25, while the rest of the infrastructure and non-infra investment would have to come from the financial sector such as banks, corporate bond markets, and by way of foreign capital.

Meanwhile, growth will likely turn positive in FY22, but GDP would touch the targeted $5 trillion mark only by FY27, two years later than initial projections. If it goes according to plan, annual average growth would be 11.6 per cent-much higher than the projected 8 per cent growth per annum for next 5 years. In FY19, India's GDP stood at $2.9 trillion.

The economic fallout of the lockdown has been more severe than anticipated with GDP contracting 24 per cent in Q1-the lowest level on record. Consumption, the mainstay of the economy, weakened sharply aggravating the weakness. While agriculture and allied activities would be growing at 3.8 per cent, industrial growth would be largely negative. Manufacturing, however, could turn positive in Q4 of this financial year aided by a low base effect.

Construction activity may contract by about 24 per cent in FY21 as private sector participation would be limited. Importantly, the housing sector would be under pressure due to a build-up of inventory and there would be limited traction, the report noted.

The decline in GDP growth would also be associated with a decline in investments as well as consumption growth that will be affected by lower income growth. The sharp fall in GDP growth in FY21 would, however, provide the cushion of a faster pace of growth in FY22 depending on the rate at which various sectors increase their output.

Flipkart to acquire 7.8% in Aditya Birla Fashion

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

WALMART-backed e-commerce giant Flipkart will acquire a 7.8 per cent stake in Aditya Birla Fashion Retail Limited (ABFRL) for ₹1,500 crore in a move to strengthen its presence in the apparel fashion segment. ABFRL currently owns nearly 3,000 Madura Fashion and Pantaloon stores across the country and exclusive tie-ups with its brands would give Flipkart a leg up on the competition.

The move is being seen as a part of the larger trend of consolidation of the e-commerce and offline sales channels, witnessed post the outbreak of the pandemic.Even though e-commerce still constitutes just around 5 per cent of the overall retail industry in India, the pandemic has accelerated the growth of online marketplaces and impacted the traditional brick-and-mortar sector. Flipkart's rivals, Amazon and Reliance, are currently locked in a battle over the latter's proposal to acquire Future Retail for ₹24,713 crore.

ABFRL told the stock exchanges on Friday that it has issued 7,31,70,732 fully paid-up equity shares to Flipkart, at a price of ₹205 per share aggregating to ₹1,500 crore. It also has plans to use this capital to strengthen its balance sheet and accelerate its growth trajectory, as well as scale up in high-growth categories such as innerwear, athleisure, casualwear, and ethnic wear.

"Fashion retail in India is set for robust long-term growth due to strong fundamentals of a large and growing middle class, favorable demographics, rising disposable incomes and aspiration for brands. Rapid growth of technology infrastructure will further accelerate this process. Over the years, we have shaped ABFRL into a strong platform to capture future growth opportunities in India. This partnership is a critical component of that strategy," Kumar Mangalam Birla, Chairman, Aditya Birla Group said.

The partnership will give Flipkart an edge over Amazon in the fashion segment which constitutes 9 per cent of overall e-commerce sales. The e-tailer said that it will strengthen the range of brands offered on its platforms, and deepen its relationship with ABFRL. "Through this partnership with ABFRL, we will work towards making available a wide range of products for fashion-conscious consumers," said Kalyan Krishnamurthy, CEO, Flipkart Group, said.

GST CESS

Centre borrows, transfers ₹6K cr to 16 states

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Centre on Friday borrowed ₹6,000 crore and transfered it to 16 states as the first tranche of GST compensation under the special borrowing window announced last week. The Centre has set up the special borrowing window to address the shortfall in GST collections during the fiscal year 2020-2021.

In all, 21 states and 2 Union Territories have opted for borrowing through this special window, which involves back-to-back borrowing coordinated by the Ministry of Finance. The money will be given to 16 out of 21 states who agreed to the first option given by the Centre—to borrow ₹1.1 lakh crore to meet the shortfall in GST compensation.

The states which will receive the transfer are Andhra Pradesh, Assam, Bihar, Goa, Gujarat, Haryana, Himachal Pradesh, Karnataka, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Meghalaya, Odisha, Tamil Nadu, Tripura, Uttar Pradesh, Uttarakhand and two Union Territories including Delhi and Jammu and Kashmir.

The rest of the five states did not record a GST shortfall.

According to the arrangement, the Centre borrows the money from the RBI and transfers it to the states. The finance ministry said that the borrowing is at an interest rate of 5.19 per cent and the tenor is expected to be broadly in the range of 3 to 5 years. The borrowed amount, along with the interest, is to be settled from future realisations of the GST compensation cess.

IDBI BANK REPORTS ₹324 CR NET PROFIT AS PROVISIONS DECLINE

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PRIVATE sector lender IDBI Bank has reported a net profit of ₹324 crore for the second quarter of the financial year (Q2FY21) against loss of ₹3,459 crore in the corresponding quarter of the previous year. The recovery was primarily due to a significant fall in provisions. The bank had reported a net profit of ₹144.43 crore in Q1FY21 and ₹135 crore in the quarter ended March 31, 2020.

According to the bank, its net interest income in the quarter rose 4 per cent to ₹1,695 crore as compared to ₹1,631.5 crore a year ago. Gross non-performing assets (NPA) meanwhile improved to 25.08 per cent as on September 2020, against 26.81 per cent as on June 2020.

> IThe bank has made Covid-19 related provision of ₹247 crore in March 2020 quarter and ₹189 crore in June 2020 quarter. Cumulative Covid-19 related provision was ₹436 crore as at the end of September 2020.
>
> Official statement, IDBI Bank

However, the Gross NPA figure will be higher if the bank includes loans that would have turned bad after August 31, according to the Supreme Court's interim order, which has barred banks from classifying any loan that is standard as on August 31 as an NPA until it gives a final verdict in the matter.

Meanwhile, provisions and contingencies for the quarter stood at ₹581.15 crore, declining 90 per cent year-on-year and 35 per cent compared to the previous quarter.

"The bank has made Covid-19 related provision of ₹247 crore in March 2020 quarter and ₹189 crore in June 2020 quarter. Cumulative Covid-19 related provision was ₹436 crore as on September 30, 2020. The provision made by the bank is more than minimum required as per the RBI guidelines," the lender said in a statement.

It also said that as a prudent measure, it has made a provision of ₹270 crore towards the expected provisioning requirement for cases which are to be restructured under the new resolution framework. Its provision coverage ratio (including technical write-offs) improved to 95.96 per cent during the quarter from 94.71 per cent in the previous one.

Maharashtra govt invites Tesla Inc to invest in state

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

WEEKS after Tesla CEO Elon Musk confirmed that the electric carmaker will enter India next year, The Maharashtra state government said on Friday that it had held a meeting with Tesla executives to invite them to invest in the state.

Maharashtra tourism and environment minister Aaditya Thackeray tweeted that he and industries minister Subhash Desai had held a video call with Tesla executives on Thursday.

"This evening I had the opportunity to participate in a video call by Industries Minister @Subhash_Desai ji with @Tesla team to invite them to Maharashtra. I was present not because of just the investment but my firm belief in electric mobility & sustainability @elonmusk," he said.

He added, "We are firmly committed to policy building and changes for sustainable development and I personally believe that electric mobility, supported by renewable energy is the way ahead. Let's hope we can help this thought become mainstream soon."

Maharashtra is already home to a number of domestic and foreign automobile manufacturers, including Bajaj Auto, Tata Motors, and Mercedes Benz, and the Chakan Industrial belt near Pune is a major automobile hub. Chinese auto major Great Wall Motors had also announced investments worth $1 billion earlier this year in the state, but had to stall the plan due to growing border tensions between the two countries.

Experts feel that Tesla's possible arrival will be a big boost for India's EV ambitions given the company's expertise and economies of scale. However, India is yet to build a widespread charging network that would support EVs.

Musk however, recently spoke about slashing battery costs in half and delivering an "affordable" electric car. "In three years... we can do a $25,000 car that will be basically on par (with), maybe slightly better than, a comparable gasoline car," he had claimed.

At present only a handful of manufacturers sell electric cars in India.

England cricketers agree to virus pay cuts

LONDON: England's centrally contracted men's cricketers have agreed to take a 15 per cent pay cut as part of cost-cutting measures due to the coronavirus pandemic. The England and Wales Cricket Board says the English game has already lost more than £100 million ($130 million) — a figure that could rise to £200 million next year.

Pliskova, Gauff bow out of Ostrava Open

OSTRAVA (CZECH REPUBLIC): Qualifier Veronika Kudermetova upset second-seeded Karolina Pliskova 4-6, 6-4, 6-3 to advance to the quarterfinals of the Ostrava Open on Thursday. Third-seeded Aryna Sabalenka came from two breaks down in the deciding set to eliminate Coco Gauff 1-6, 7-5, 7-6 (2).

Kapil recovering from heart attack, nation concerned

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

LEGENDARY cricketer Kapil Dev is recovering after suffering a heart attack. He underwent angioplasty and is expected to be discharged from hospital in a day or two. Wishes and recovery messages poured in from the cricket fraternity and beyond.

The 61-year-old World Cup-winning captain complained of chest pain on Thursday, following which he was taken to Fortis Escorts Heart Institute. Doctors advised angioplasty, which is done to open blocked arteries and restore normal blood flow to the heart. "Kapil Dev suffered a heart attack. He was evaluated and an emergency coronary angioplasty was performed in the middle of night," said a hospital bulletin. "Currently, he is admitted in ICU and under close supervision of Dr Atul Mathur and his team. Kapil Dev is stable now and he is expected to get discharged in a couple of days."

Kapil lives in New Delhi with wife Romi and daughter Amiya. A statement posted on the former player's Instagram account read: "Thank you everyone for all the love and concern. I am overwhelmed with the good wishes and well on the road to recovery." News of Kapil's hospitalisation spread like wildfire and the who's who of Indian cricket took to Twitter. Among those wishing him recovery were Sachin Tendulkar, Virat Kohli, Virender Sehwag, Yuvraj Singh, Irfan Pathan, Shikhar Dhawan, WV Raman, the BCCI and Kapil's teammates Madan Lal and Kirti Azad. Badminton star Saina Nehwal also expressed concern.

Madan Lal said he has conveyed the messages of the well-wishers to Kapil's family. "To those who have called to inquire, your prayers and wishes are conveyed to the family and received with gratitude. Good health and strength kaps," read his tweet.

Kapil displayed a brand of cricket in 131 Tests and 225 ODIs that Indians were not known to be capable of playing. Before Courtney Walsh overtook it, Kapil's 434 was the world record for most Test wickets. He hit eight Test centuries other than the epic unbeaten 175 against Zimbabwe in the 1983 World Cup.

Take care @therealkapildev! Praying for your quick recovery. Get well soon Paaji- Sachin Tendulkar

The nation is well aware of his grit and spirit and we are very sure he will be out of the hospital soon- BCCI

Praying for your speedy recovery. Get well soon paaji. Virat Kohli

The big hearted #Kapildev our captain, with a never say die attitude, has recovered. For this mighty giant of Indian cricket nothing is impossible- Kirti Azad

CHENNAI SUPER SINK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

THIS was not supposed to go this way for Chennai Super Kings. They have been the IPL's most successful team. Their win percentage of 59.48 is the best of all sides. Despite missing two seasons, they are just 11 behind Mumbai Indians' record for most IPL wins. They have lost the least number of matches (71; excluding Friday's game). They are the only team to defend the IPL title. No team has played in as many finals as Chennai and they are the lone side to make it to play-offs every single time.

Trent Boult was the pick of the bowlers (4/18) for Mumbai Indians | SPORTZPICS

But, all of it is past. The present is a sorry tale. They are an unrecognisable outfit, who only remind you of their glory days. On Friday, in a must-win match against Mumbai Indians, they hit a new low for the season. They ended up with 114/9, a total that seemed way beyond their reach when at 30/6 in the seventh over. IPL's lowest-ever total (49 by RCB vs KKR) was under threat.

This is not what you expect from Chennai. They are a team that season after season, vie for the title. Mumbai made short work of the target, storming to 116/0 in just 12.2 overs.

Chennai were playing like they had resigned to their fate, that a play-off berth is beyond them. Opposition sides are dismantling a team that had been their envy for so long. Chennai used to instill fear in them. Not anymore. The CSK faithfuls, the most passionate franchise fans in India, are waiting for the sorrow to end. They are already looking ahead to the next season, in the hope that there will be fresh auctions. But here is the catch. The buzz in BCCI circles is, the big auction will be postponed, meaning Chennai will have to play another season with the same squad.

Brief scores: Chennai Super Kings 114/9 (Curran 52, Boult 4/18) lost to Mumbai Indians 116/0 in 12.2 overs (Ishan 68 n.o, De Kock 46 N.O.)

A look at a few talking points from the two matches on Saturday...

HEAD TO HEAD
KKR 13, DC 12

NO ROOM FOR MISTAKES

The clash in Abu Dhabi is more important for Kolkata — placed fourth with 10 points — than toppers Delhi. Both teams have lost their previous matches. But Eoin Morgan & Co would not want anymore slip-ups if they are to keep their qualification hopes alive.

1 Delhi's Kagiso Rabada has taken at least a wicket in all the matches this edition.

HEAD TO HEAD
KXIP 4 SRH 11

MUST WIN FOR BOTH TEAMS

Punjab are starting to turn the tide having won last three matches, beating the top teams. Hyderabad, who they meet in Dubai, are also coming into the match with a victory. The two teams occupy the fifth and sixth places respectively with eight points from 10 matches. They both need to win their remaining four matches to guarantee their places in the top four.

5 Kings XI Punjab opener KL Rahul has hit most half-centuries this IPL.

HIGH-STAKES CLASH

The latest installment of the El Clasico, one of club football's biggest games, could be a bit low on quality. Here's a look at some of the main talking points...

DEPLETED SIDES

Both teams will not be at their full strength. Barca will continue to be without first choice keeper Marc Andre ter Stegen, while Real will be without the likes of Eden Hazard and Dani Carvajal. More worryingly, they are also sweating on the fitness of club captain, Sergio Ramos, who missed the Shakhtar clash with a knee injury.

BARCA LOOK TO BUILD

While Ronald Koeman suffered a setback against Getafe, the honeymoon period has, by and large, been okay. Teenager Ansu Fati has been in good touch and the club's other youngsters have got some chances to shine. Lionel Messi found the back of the net midweek (Champions League), a reminder that he is still quite handy at this level. A victory will see them leapfrog Real.

OFF-FIELD ISSUES FOR BARCA

Barca too come in to the match with their own set of problems. Gerard Pique, in an interview to a Spanish outlet, once again questioned the board's policies. If they do lose to Real, the board's demise could well be fast-tracked. Even otherwise, Josep Bartomeu, the board president, could still be removed as he faces a vote of no confidence. A win is vital for the board to paper over the cracks after a window when Lionel Messi was forced to stay at the club.

ZIDANE IN EARLY TROUBLE

The goodwill of last season's triumph has evaporated after losses to promoted Cadiz and Covid-hit Shakhtar. A third loss in seven days could severely dent Zinedine Zidane's chances of staying on. He has given them unparalleled success but life in Real is usually swim or sink.

0 Barcelona haven't scored in their last two league outings against Real (their worst such run this century)

2013 Barcelona haven't beaten Real in the last two league matches, the last time they went without beating them thrice was in 2013

17 It's been 17 years since these two sides both lost a league game heading into the Clasico

Planning & clarity, Morris mantra

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

EYEBROWS were raised when Royal Challengers Bangalore bought Chris Morris for ₹10 crore at the IPL auction last December. After having problems at the death overs and with lower-order finishing in the past few seasons, Bangalore knew what they were doing. And the 33-year-old has not disappointed so far.

Sample these: Morris has a strike rate of 13.33, average of 11.11, economy rate of 5.00, helping him find a spot in the top three in all these these categories this season. He has taken nine wickets, bowling mostly during the difficult periods — power play and death overs. The South African is not express, but comes with his homework well done. He relies mostly on line and length and during death overs. He has also been impressive with his toe crushers and other variations.

"We have analysts, who get figures together and analyse all the stats with the batting and bowling coach. People do not know what happens behind the scenes to prepare for just one game," said Morris in a virtual press conference on Friday.

"It has a lot to do about clarity and execution. We do a lot of homework behind the scenes. By the time we get to the game, we know what we need to do and it is up to you to execute it. My plans have been quite clear. If something goes wrong, there is a Plan B. If Plan B does not work, there is a plan C...."

Morris also praised his medical team's effort to help him recover from injury. After his inclusion, Bangalore won four of the last five matches. They have restricted teams to less than 135 on three occasions. His exploits have not been limited to the ball. He contributed an 8-ball 25, albeit in a losing cause. Morris feels he could get smacked for runs in the coming matches, but maintains there has to be clarity. "I have not been smacked yet. And it is going to come, unfortunately. That is the nature of the beast, that is the IPL. I have to keep my clarity. As soon as you lose that clarity of what you want to do in the game, things go pear shaped," said Morris.

Chaudhry set to be AFI secretary

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

RAVINDER Chaudhry has emerged the sole candidate for the Athletics Federation of India secretary's post. The other name in the validly nominated candidates' list, Sandeep Mehta is entered as senior vice-president, as reported by this newspaper two days ago. The elections will be held on October 31 in New Delhi.

According to a top official in the AFI, the process took place without any acrimony. Chaudhry, who is representing Chandigarh Athletics Association in the electoral college, is a vice-president of the AFI and will replace CK Valson, who completed two four-year terms in April. Olympian Adille Sumariwalla will continue as president for a third term. Madhukant Pathak is set to replace PK Srivastava as treasurer.

According to the new constitution, there are five vice-presidents in place of seven and the number of executive committee members is eight (seven plus one reserved for women). Even joint-secretaries have been pruned to five from seven.

Competition essential in Elavenil's world

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@ Chennai

EVEN by India's remarkable shooting prowess, the talent in the women's 10m air rifle category is bordering on absurd. There are three inside the world's top seven in terms of rankings: Elavenil Valarivan (World No 1), Anjum Moudgill (No 4) and Apurvi Chandela (No 7). Only one other nation — Germany — has more than one shooter inside the top 10 (2). In fact, most predictions indicated that India would get at least one Olympic medal from this event. The competition among the three is stiff and only two of them can go to Tokyo.

The 21-year-old Elavenil, who has opted to skip the camp which began on Wednesday, touched upon the competition for places, during an interaction with this daily. "The women's team is definitely competitive right now," she says. "I have to compete with not only Anjum and Apurvi but also Shreya (Agarwal) to maintain my ranking. Junior shooters are doing well too. I can vouch that all that competition is keeping us on our toes and we are developing further. We need to stay positive and keep fighting."

With most ranges shuttered around the world to halt the spread of the virus, shooters have found it tough to practice. But Elavenil, originally from Tamil Nadu, got special dispensation from the Ahmedabad District Rifle Association. "I have a shooting range just 500 metres away from my place... I got permission from the district association to access the range. The range is quite compatible, I practise on an SIUS electronic target which was arranged by the Gagan Narang Sports Promotion Foundation and Sanskardham School."

The 2019 World Cup gold medallist (in Rio de Janeiro) also kept herself occupied by engaging in a variety of exercises aimed at maintaining her levels. "It's a big worry if a shooter is unable to access the range, but there are training methods which can be followed to keep up with the shooter-range gap... exercises such as core body workout, wall holding training methods, scatt practice, dry practice." BFC players, coaches to reach Goa today

BENGALURU: Bengaluru FC players and coaching staff will reach Goa today ahead of the ISL 2020-21 season, which is scheduled to start from November 20. They will stay in quarantine for seven days. BFC head to Goa after a pre-season training camp of around three weeks at the Inspire Institute of Sport in Bellary. However, Cleiton Silva and Kristian Opseth are yet to arrive, while Francisco Gonzalez is expected to land in Goa today.

F1: Bottas pace setter in opening session

PORTIMAO (PORTUGAL): Valtteri Bottas topped the times ahead of Formula One leader Lewis Hamilton in a one-two finish for Mercedes in Friday's opening practice for the Portuguese Grand Prix. Finn Bottas maintained a habit that has seen him enjoy being 'fastest on Friday', but not always with success on the following days, as he clocked a best lap of one minute and 18.410 seconds. That lap was enough to lift him three-tenths of a second clear of teammate Hamilton.

Timely boost: Vijay hands lifeline to Sunrisers and himself

ASHOK VENUGOPAL @ Chennai

IN the IPL world of drama, narrow verdicts and tense chases lie subplots. Teams and individuals all are under pressure. Failures get noticed and it does not take long to get sidelined. After going through a frustrating period made worse by injuries, Vijay Shankar found himself in a spot of bother.

In and out of the Sunrisers Hyderabad XI, pressure on the Tamil Nadu player was mounting. And when the chance came to prove his mettle, he came up with an all-round display to help his team beat Rajasthan Royals by eight wickets. The value of his performance was immense, as it kept Hyderabad in the tournament and lifted them to fifth on the table.

"If you ask, personally it was a do-or-die game for me. That's how I saw this game. I didn't have the best of time with the bat, so I had to perform in this game and fortunately or unfortunately, we lost early wickets which prompted the team to send me up the order," said Vijay, after making an unbeaten 52 and sharing a match-winning partnership of 140 with Manish Pandey, who struck a magnificent 83 not out.

After Hyderabad lost David Warner and Jonny Bairstow early while chasing 155 for victory, Vijay and Pandey came together. With scores of 0, 12 and 7 in the three innings he had played prior to Thursday, Vijay was the quieter of the two. While Pandey galloped ahead with a flurry of sixes, his partner was content rotating the strike. Once the partnership got going, Vijay played a few shots of his own. He revealed that the plan was to carry on for as long as possible.

"I had batted just 18 balls prior to this (match). It was a good challenge and I was looking forward to something like this because it will give me a lot of confidence if I do well in that situation. I asked Manish if I should go for the shots because I didn't want him to feel the pressure because of me and play a rash shot. We were communicating in that partnership, that's why we were able to take the game deep. So I opened up and then we got a few boundaries and it made things easier for us," he said.

Vijay gave a good account of himself as a bowler as well. Having returned tidy figures of 4-0-20-1 in the previous match against Kolkata, he bowled three overs for 15 and the big wicket of Jos Buttler on Thursday. "I have been bowling well. I don't know when I will get the ball, so I just wanted to be ready. I tried to take the pace off, hit the hard length and bowl cross-seamed," he said.

DIVINE INSPIRATION

Madurai Meenakshi, Bhuvaneshwari, Kali, Lakshmi... Meet the 18 avatars of Goddess Durga, portrayed by this city-based male dancer this Navratri

Madurai Meenakshi | Pics: Jayasimha Reddy

During Navratri, many little girls dress up as different goddesses. This year, Shekar Rajendran thought of breaking that stereotype by dressing up as not one, but 18 different avatars of Goddess Durga. The city-based dancer has portrayed the goddesses in the same manner in which they are represented in South Indian temples. "When we speak about devis, the first image that comes to mind is the representation of the goddesses in North India. I wanted to highlight some of the goddesses down South too," says the 38-year-old. Rajendran has portrayed avatars of Goddess Durga, including Kali, Lakshmi, Bhuvaneshwari, Sridevi, Chamundeshwari, Padmavati and Saraswati.

"Many might wonder why I have painted my face black. Most idols in South Indian temples are made of granite. Moreover, I thought it was important to highlight the beauty of the colour black, more so in the present political climate," he says. Looking at the detailed costumes, intricate jewellery and elaborate make-up would make one think Rajendran has spent months on this project. But the shoot took only 4-5 days. "While there are images of goddesses on the internet, I didn't want to use those as a reference because it would inhibit my creativity. All the goddesses I portray are how I perceive them to be," says the Bharatnatyam dancer with more than three decades experience. For example, goddess Madurai Meenakshi is known for liking parrots, so Rajendran made sure to dress in a parrot green saree. While the sarees were borrowed from his mother's wardrobe, he made sure to tailor the blouses to his fitting. "As a dancer, I don't trust anyone with the make-up. I did all the make-up myself and got a lot of jewellery to accessorise. Overall, it took 45 minutes to be ready for one get-up," says Rajendran.

Chamundeshwari

Lakshmi

The Navratri series will be published on Sunday on Instagram (@shekarrajendranartfactory). It is a part of a bigger series where Rajendran is portraying other characters like Shah Jahan, Gautam Buddha and Alauddin Khilji. "I want to create a record of a single person portraying multiple characters. I hope to be done with 50 soon," says Rajendran, adding that he has a Guinness World Record for being a part of a troupe that danced for 100 hours.

Asmitha Sathish

Ashim Sunam

When Asmitha Sathish tees off at Prestige Golfshire in the RBG Champions Golf Development Tour next week in Bengaluru, it marks her return to competitive action. This will be true for the majority of the golfers who will be featured in the three-day event. The amateur golfer from Bengaluru last featured in March and is keen to make it count in her first outing after the lockdown. "I gradually started practising on the golf course from the end of May. It is always fun to play in a tournament, and more so, this time, as I will be competing after so many months. I am definitely excited to go out and play against fellow competitors," said the 18-year-old, who made some arrangements, including nets to hit balls, in the lawn outside her house during the lockdown period.

The event will consist of junior, teen and amateur categories for both boys and girls. So far, around 65 players have registered. The organisers want to restrict the entry to 75 due to the Covid-19 situation. Because of the prevailing situation, majority of the golfers are from Bengaluru while only a few from other states have registered. Strict protocols are going to be followed, where safety of the players is going to be paramount. For instance, no caddies are allowed, but they can make use of their family members to carry their bag or trollies around if they want to.

"No caddies are allowed from outside. Everything is restricted. There will be no food and beverage service but they will be given packed lunches. They will not be allowed to sit anywhere in the club house, so no mingling. Also, if there is rain and they have to evacuate the golf course, they will have to go and sit in their cars," said tournament organiser Romit Bose, who also added that winners in the junior and amateur category will gain Global Junior Golf Ranking (JGS) and World Amateur Golf Rankings (WAGR) points, respectively.

Other safety measures like wearing masks, regular use of sanitisers, among others have been a regular feature for golfers during practice too. So, they are habituated by now in the greens. One such golfer is 17-year-old Ruhaan Bajaj, who started practising last month and is not worried about the new norms in place.

"It has been a lot of time since I last played a competition and I am really eager to play again," said Bajaj, who will compete in the teen and amateur categories. "I never used a caddie. I have always carried the golf bag by myself and I am going to do the same this time around. I have been wearing masks while playing of late so I am already used to this as well."

FIT BIT

SUTRA NETI
(NASAL CLEANSING YOGA)

In Sanskrit, 'sutra' means 'thread' and 'neti' means originally 'to guide' but also known as 'nasal cleansing'. It is a yogic cleansing practice to clear the nasal passageways. This allows for easier breathing, which helps with Pranayama and breathing during practice. In this, a wet string is inserted through the nose and exits through the mouth. The ends of the string is held and gently pulled in and out of the nasal passageways to clear them and remove any nasal polyps. This must be performed only under the guidance of a yoga expert.

STEPS

- Sit in Kagasana.
- Tilt your head slightly back and insert a thread or rubber catheter into one of the nostrils, whichever is more active at the moment. Gently push it through the nostril using both hands.
- When the thread has come through to the back of the throat, put your index and middle fingers into the mouth; catch hold of the thread. Take it out carefully and slowly through the mouth.
- Now, leave a few inches of the thread hanging out of the nose.
- Slowly and gently pull the thread out. Do it twice or thrice initially.
- The same process can be practised through the other nostril.
- After mastering the process, the thread can be moved forward and backward as per convenience and taken out slowly through the mouth. You may also insert the thread through one nostril and take it out of the other.
- While doing this procedure, breathe through the mouth.

BENEFITS

- Cures nasal disorders.
- Massages the membranes and sinus glands. It is good for the nose and throat, tonsillitis and catarrh.
- Refreshes brain cells, improves function of the tear duct and olfactory zone.
- Improves functions of the eyes.
- Increases resistance to invasion by viruses and bacteria.
- Clears dried up mucus and foreign particles. Removes blood stagnation.
- Engages the Koshas and stimulates the Ajna chakra.
- Helps in prevention and management of cold, cough and sneezing.
- Plays a vital role in curing insomnia.
- Boosts memory.

LIMITATIONS

- Don't force the thread into your nose.
- Practise before the pranayama session.
- Perform it after Jala Neti.
- Ensure thread is clean and trimmed properly.

I AM KALKI TO MARK KANNADA FILM DEBUT OF BOBBY SIMHA

The Tamil actor, who has worked in Telugu and Malayalam cinema, will now be a part of the crime thriller starring Prem, and directed by Chakravarthy Chandrachud

Filmmaker Prem will be teaming up with director Chakravarthy Chandrachud for a crime thriller, which has been titled, I am Kalki. An announcement was made on actor-director Prem's birthday on Oct. 22. The director also hinted at bringing over a popular Tamil actor, and it has come to light that Bobby Simha will be making his Kannada film debut with this project. The actor will feature as an antagonist, in a face-off with Prem.

Confirming his talks with Bobby Simha, Chandrachud said, "We have had a round of discussions with Bobby Simha, who has liked the story and his character. An official confirmation about bringing on board the Jigarthanda actor will be made from our end once he signs on the dotted line."

Along with the name 'Kalki', which is mentioned in Hindu mythology as the last incarnation of Vishnu, Chakravarthy Chandruchud has also piqued interest with the film's tag line -- 'You Smell like Love'.

The director has based his subject on a series of incidents that have taken place over the past six months in Karnataka. The topics will include the ongoing drug menace, and also highlight engineer Adhitya Rao, accused of planting a bomb at Mangaluru International Airport to trigger a scare, a role to be played by director Chakravarthy Chandrachud himself.

I am Kalki is being produced by Suresh Babu, who was previously associated with Aane Pataki. The film will have Sadhu Kokila's son Suraag S composing the music.

The makers plan to start the shooting from December 16, with the first schedule happening in Bengaluru.

Lost in translation

• Ashameera Aiyappan

To adopt a novel to the screen is no easy task. It's more so when the novel is one of the longest in English literature, spanning more than 1,400 pages. Set in 1950, the era of the new India, director Mira Nair attempts to distill the sprawling universe that is A Suitable Boy into a six-episode mini-series for the BBC. The adaptation is BBC's first series with no major white characters (Mira Nair once remarked it was The Crown in brown.) But it's also the most expensive BBC series yet. This opulence translates to the screen: the aesthetics brim with the beauty of the rich... but where is the soul?

A Suitable Boy is set in an India that has just discovered freedom. It is a period of metamorphosis, a coming of age for the nation. There is the hangover of the colonial past, co-existing with the desire to exercise newly discovered democratic rights. This tumult is to be captured with the narrative arcs of Lata (the charming Tanya Maniktala), who is studying English literature and is being pressured by her mother to get married. On the other hand, there is Maan (Ishaan Khatter), the reckless son of a politician who falls in love with the courtesan Saeeda Bai (Tabu). But the series rarely delves into the cultural depths the story scape provides, settling to skate through the surface.

Director: Mira Nair

Cast: Tabu, Ishaan Khatter, Tanya Maniktala, Mahira Kakkar, Danesh Razvi, Namit Das, Ram Kapoor

Streaming on: Netflix

RATING 3/5

The major problem is the affected, anglicised setting of the universe. Most of the characters speak English. One might argue that some of the major characters belong to the uber elite, and hence English suits them better. But when almost every character in the series uses English like it were their first language, it makes the world you know so foreign (The novel has been adapted to the screen by Andrew Davies). The anglicisation goes beyond the language. Lata and her romantic interest Kabir (Danesh Razvi) kiss in public, with no attempt to be clandestine. A similar situation repeats later with Amit (Mikhail Sen), on a busy road. You see people walking about in the background, seemingly uninterested in the couple. I can't imagine it being the case in reality, where at least the characters themselves would have had certain inhibitions. As the series progresses, it exudes so much of the West that it feels like you are watching a Downton Abbey set in India.

The performances add charm to this largely languid series. Ishaan Khatter shines as the reckless angry, young 'Maan' and I quite liked Tanya Maniktala who balances Lata's confusion and confidence with lovely control. It is also fascinating to see the equation between Maan and Firoz—their body language so refreshingly free, laced with innocent homosexual undertones. And then, there's Tabu, who plays the older concubine Saeeda Bai. Her relationship with Maan is the most intriguing of the lot. It isn't explored with great detail here, but to depict an older woman's sensuality and desire with respect and dignity is itself a rarity in Indian cinema. This is a space the gorgeous Tabu truly excels in, even if this isn't necessarily her best performance.

Film adaptations, by and large, don't offer the experience books give, as they streamline the vision for the viewer. On the other hand, words on a page, even with detailed descriptions, leave room for the reader's imagination. Books also offer moments of introspection which allow you to process and understand emotional dynamics. Mira Nair's adaptation, however, feels rushed, with the narrative moving forward without embellishing emotional arcs. There's a moment between Lata and her mother after she has chosen a man she wants to marry. The mother who has so far refused to accept her daughter's choices says, "You need to choose for yourself." It's a line that feels unintentionally funny. As we are not privy to moments of deep reflection, some of the 'twists' seem to come out of nowhere, leaving us more bemused than shocked. In this adaptation of A Suitable Boy, the intent feels lost in translation.

Actor Rajavardan turns producer

• CE Features

Rajavardan will be the latest one to join the bandwagon of actors turning producers. The Bicchugatti: Chapter 1 Dalvayi Dange hero has announced a new venture, called Red Diamnod Productions, and plans to bankroll his next project under his home banner. Rajavardan announced the news on the social media, and addressed his fans, saying, "It's truly a dream come true for me, this wouldn't have happened without your support. You guys give me immense courage to do more. I promise that you will not be disappointed. Will do good movies and keep you entertained. Need all your blessings and support as always. First look and official logo coming soon." The upcoming film will see him collaborate with director Kumaresh for a story based on a true situation involving a big scam. It will be an action-based plot with elements of love and thrill. The actor has also undergone a major transformation in appearance for the role.

Old Monk's Telugu remake and dubbing rights sold

• CE Features

The shooting of Old Monk is under way, and the romantic comedy entertainer is already in demand to be made in another language. Ravi Kashyap's Starwood, and Klapboard production house have acquired the rights for the Telugu remake and dubbing of the yet-to-be-released film. Old Monk is directed by MG Srinivas, who also plays the lead role in the film. It also features Aditi Prabhudeva, Sudev Nair, S Narayan, and Sihikahi Chandru as part of the cast. Srinivas' last film, Birbal Trilogy: Vajramuni Case No 1, is now being remade as Thimmarasu in Telugu, and next in line will be Old Monk. Saurabh-Vaibhav, who had composed the music for Sonu Ke Titu Ki Sweety will be doing the compositions, while Bharath Parashuram will be cranking the camera for the film.

With Old Monk, RJ-turned-director Srinivas, who made his film debut with Topiwala, has conceived a story of a sanyasi who stirs up controversies, and how he falls in love.

More a decent preface than a compelling centrepiece

• Avinash Ramachandran

The first act of violence in Mirzapur 2 doesn't come from the hot-headed Munna or Guddu. It doesn't even come from the senior Kaleen Bhaiya or his right-hand man, Maqbool. It comes from the reticent Gajagamini aka Golu (Shweta Tripathi) and Dimpy (Harshita Gaur). They are out on their own, fending for themselves and a terribly-wounded Guddu after the bloodshed of season 1's finale. A cutaway shot soon after this violent exchange reminds us that the gun-wielding, hollow-eyed Golu of season 2 used to be someone happily sipping on cups of chai and studying in the concealed spaces of a library. Just like Golu, every woman in Mirzapur undergoes a sea of change. Some are wizened, some are hardened, and some just become more scheming. In between the stories of all these women, lies the story of four men with daddy issues fighting for the one tag that rules them all — King of Mirzapur.

When the first season hit Amazon Prime Video, it was bhaukaal indeed. The lack of censorship in the OTT space was milked to the maximum with a never-ending stream of gore, violence, sex, and profanity. It feels as if the makers got almost everything out of their system in that first season and have now resolved to use their freedom judiciously. Yes, there are action scenes where brain matter patterns the walls and blood pools are formed around saloon chairs. However, it comes sparingly in a season that seems to be more about setting the stage for a hopefully more explosive season 3.

New families and newer players are written into this season in an attempt to make Mirzapur a more expansive crime saga. Apart from the warring Pandits and Tripathis, we now have the Tyagis and Shuklas too joining the mix, with a liberal dose of collateral damage across the board. Add to this, random permutations and combinations of double-crossing, betrayal, and treachery, and we have Mirzapur 2.

Starting from exactly where season 1 left off, we see Guddu (Ali Fazal) and Munna (Divyendu) recuperating from that damned night. However, there is no sense of urgency in exacting that revenge because the story becomes more than just about these two. Uttar Pradesh politics, which played a peripheral role in season 1, takes centre stage with Isha Talwar joining the cast as Madhuri, the widowed daughter of the chief minister. The profitable business of the guns of Mirzapur is now extended to opium trade and bootlegging. These new business ventures bring in the families of Tyagi (Lilliput Faruqui, Vijay Verma) and Shukla (Anjum Sharma, Meghna Malik).

Director: Gurmmeet Singh, Mihir Desai

Cast: Pankaj Tripathi, Shweta Tripathi, Ali Fazal, Divyendu

Streaming on: Amazon Prime

RATING 3/5

Having so many good actors on the screen takes the spotlight away from the central conflict between Guddu-Golu and Munna-Kaleen, which consequently gets resolved too late into the series. And despite the abundance of conflicts now, it is the ones that were already present in season 1 that stand out, especially the arc of Beena (Rasika Dugal) who proves true the old adage, 'hell hath no fury like a woman scorned'.

Despite some bloated scenes, this season is livened up by the consistently excellent performances. The cast doesn't just revel in the violence, but shines in some tender moments too. Leading from the front is the inimitable Pankaj Tripathi, who brings the necessary gravitas to a role that frequently sways between invincibility and vulnerability. Divyendu, who was a revelation in the first season, comes into his own this time around to prove that his previous performance was not a flash in the pan. Shweta once again proves that she is the Ms Consistent of the OTT space. From Rasika's ticking time-bomb of a performance to the pure evil of Kulbhushan Kharbanda's Bauji and Isha's effective portrayal of restrained anger, Mirzapur is once again bolstered by top-notch performers all around. It is their conviction that keeps us invested in this world of blood, betrayal, and mayhem, which takes too much time to get to the point.

The testosterone-laden Mirzapur 2 might seem to revolve around the Bahubalis (Dons) — the Kaleens, the Munnas and the Guddus — but, just like the pan-Indian blockbuster of that name, this series too is essentially about its women. If one decides to wreak havoc on the Tripathis, one inadvertently almost demolishes the Tyagis. If one tries to keep the Pandits together, one manages to end some huge political dreams. However, at the end of it all, when the men go about killing and maiming each other, and continue their quest for the throne of Mirzapur, they fail to understand who actually holds the power. As Subbu from Thiagarajan Kumararaja's Tamil film, Aaranya Kaandam, famously said, "Best thing about being a woman is - it's a man's world." The women of Mirzapur would sit around, have a drink or two, and share a smile at that.
